THE INDIAN CHILD

INDIA is one of the few less developed countries of the world, which has a National Policy, devised in 1974, for its millions of children. Between then and now, children's boards have been set up in various States and their activities are co-ordinated by a National Children's Board with the Prime Minister of India as its President.

Since 1979 was designated the International Year of the Child (IYC) a Plan of Action for National and State Boards was drawn up for further enlargement of the scope of their programmes, already under implementation, for improving the lot of the children of India. India had agreed to contribute Rs. 900,000 to the UNICEF in connection with the IYC. In fact India was one of the first countries of the world to respond to the United Nations announcement of celebrating a "Year of the Child". India has also contributed $ 100,000 for a secretariat to programme the IYC work for the year.

The year 1979 was the 20th anniversary of the declaration of the Rights of the Child. So that each country accelerated its efforts to recognise and fulfil the needs of the children, the United Nations had declared 1979, the International Year of the Child.

The "International Year of the Child" was concerned with improving the quality of childhood, so that children could live in an atmosphere where basic services like education, health, nutrition, safe water and shelter are available to all children, especially to young and disadvantaged children, and to those in remote areas.

The present UNICEF commitments in India amount to $107.9 million. The commitments for India cover three years and present the largest single country commitment in UNICEF's 34-year history. UNICEF assistance to India was first begun in 1949.

The present Indian programme envisages the expansion of UNICEF support to reduce infant mortality and concentrate on the welfare of the young child, improve the life of mothers and reduce effects of poverty on children's well-being.

UNICEF's programmes will be coordinated with the Government of India's Five-Year Plan.

UNICEF considers the following basic services essential:

(a) Health care; (b) Clean water supply; (c) Nutrition; (d) Education (elementary); (e) Training to provide health workers, teachers, social workers and nutritionists; (f) Welfare services (creches, youth and women's groups) and self-help projects to improve family and community life.

UNICEF stresses that special attention should be devoted to disadvantaged children, e.g. slum children, children of migrant workers, abused children, orphaned children, refugee children in poor rural areas, children exposed to drug and crime, and handicapped and malnutritioned children.

The care of destitute children is a more difficult task than looking after the health and other needs of children who live with their parents. It was in 1974-75, that special scheme for looking after the neglected abandoned or orphaned children was set in motion with an initial allocation of Rs. 50 million, later raised to Rs. 90 million.

The essence of the scheme is finding a home for a group of children (about 25) in a children's village to be set up under a house-mother. The mother with the assistance of voluntary and government agencies helps to provide non-formal education and pre-vocational and post-vocational training of the children under her charge. Only about 24,284 children have been attended to under this scheme. There are about 2.5 million destitute children in India.

There are also 33 Integrated Child Development Service Projects functioning at present with 3,098 anganwadis under them

Anganwadi delivers a package comprising nutrition upkeep, reduction of infant mortality and of the incidence of infectious diseases, in addition to the extension of non-formal education facilities to take care of the rural drop-outs. The entire project relies heavily on voluntary agencies and the participation of the rural community in the implementation of the programme charted out for each ICDS rural unit.

ICDS has extended the benefit of better nutrition to 227,000 children and women and non-formal education to 103,000 children. Since children account for 42 per cent of the country's population the impact of ICDS will be of real significance, only if more anganwadis were organised and made to function in the far-flung areas of the country.

In the First Plan, child welfare found no place. In the Second Plan, child welfare was bracketed with family welfare and a token allotment of funds was made for child welfare programmes. In the Third Plan, separate provision was made for child welfare programmes. In the Fourth Plan the amount was marginally increased, but was still inadequate to meet the demands of child population of the country.

A National Children's Fund has been launched by the Centre and similar funds are to be started by the State Governments.

Since 1927, there is also a Children's Aid Society to provide residential care to destitute children and in 1952 Indian Council of Child Welfare was set up. But the impact of all these in view of the magnitude of the problem is negligible.

A Committee under the Chairmanship of Shri M. S. Gurupadaswamy of Karnataka has been set up by the Central Government to go into the Child Labour Problems. The Committee will examine present laws relating to child labour and will suggest ways of improving the laws. The Committee will also suggest new areas, where laws abolishing or regulating the employment of children can be introduced and recommend welfare measures, training or other facilities that should be introduced for the welfare of the children.

FAMILY WELFARE PROGRAMME

INDIA was the first country to adopt an official policy favouring family planning in 1952. During the period of the first two Plans (1951-61), the emphasis was mainly on research in the field of motivation, communication, demography, physiology of reproduction and on the extension of Central and State organisations for providing clinical services. In 1962-63 the programme was reorganised and a new "Extension Approach" was adopted. The programme was, however, still treated as an isolated birth control scheme. This point of view was given a more concrete shape during 1974, the World Population Year. In March 1977, the Ministry of Health and Family Planning has been redesignated as Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, the Department of Family Planning as the Department of Family Welfare and the Family Planning Programme as Family Welfare Programme. The objective of the Family Welfare in India in 1978 was to reduce the birth rate to 30 per thousand population by the end of 1982-83 from the present rate of 33 per thousand population.

In 1978, the Planning Commission, appointed a Working Group on Population Policy to suggest a long-term demographic objective for the country. They felt that under the present conditions it is hardly possible to separate the issues of fertility control from the broad spectrum of socio-economic and developmental factors. The Group suggested that the future fertility goals should be linked to some developmental variables, like mortality level, particularly infant mortality. The Working Group, in its final report has recommended that the long term demographic goal of the country should be that on the average woman will be replaced by one daughter and two-child family will be the normative pattern in the society, and all the States should reach this goal by the year 2001 A.D.

Fixation of Levels of Performance: The operational programme fixed for the five-year period 1978-83, to bring down the birth rate to 30 by the end of 1982-83, envisages 28 million voluntary sterilisations, 5 million IUD insertions, an annual average of 5 million users of conventional contraceptives and oral pills. For the year 1978-79, it was aimed to perform about 3.96 million sterilisations, 0.6 million IUD insertions and to increase the number of users of other methods to 4 million.

Position in 1978-79: The method-wise performance of the programme as compared to that in the year 1977-78 is tabulated in the following page.

Administration: A full-fledged Department of Family Planning created in April 1966, in the Ministry of Health and Family Planning, now known as the Department of Family Welfare, is headed by the Secretary of the Ministry and an Additional Secretary who is also Commissioner of Family Welfare. There is a Family Welfare Cabinet Committee presided over by the Finance Minister and the State Family Welfare Cabinet Committees headed by the Chief Ministers to ensure expeditious policy clearance and better co-ordination among different administrative wings. The Central Family Welfare Council is the supreme policy making body. The Union Minister of Health presides over the Council, while all State Health Ministers and Secretaries are its members. The Council also includes representatives of voluntary and labour organisations, some members of Parliament and eminent personalities and experts in the field of family welfare. Family Welfare Councils also function at the State level.

Organisation in States and Union Territories: To implement Family Welfare and Maternal Health Programme, 26 State Family Welfare Bureaux are functioning in various States and Union Territories. At the district level 358 District Family Welfare Bureaux are functioning in 385 districts of India. Six more have been sanctioned during 1978-79. Upto September 1978, Urban Family Welfare Centres (including 350 attached to Post-Partum Family Welfare institutions) numbered 1,986. Upto September 30, 1978, as against 5,397 Primary Health Centres functioning in the country 5,304 Rural Family Welfare Centres had been established. In addition State Governments have been allowed to establish 158 Rural Family Welfare Centres at such Primary Health Centres, which do not have one at present. These rural centres are supported by sub-centres. Against the requirement of 43,910 sub-centres necessary to achieve the target of one sub-centre per 10,000 rural population (1971 census), 39,012 sub-centres are functioning in the country. It is also proposed to provide one female multi-purpose worker (ANM) for every 5,000 rural population by 1984-85 to improve the maternity services in the rural areas and massive training schemes have been taken up towards that end.

Integrated Approach: During the inter-plan period of 1968-69, the family planning programme was integrated with the public health programme in the country, especially with the maternal and child health programme. In 1973-74, it was integrated with other health programmes, like health, family planning, maternity and child health (MCH) and multi-purpose workers are being trained to perform all the integrated tasks. Since 1978, the programme has been integrated with other development programmes, such as adult education programmes, population education programmes in the schools and special programmes for employment of women in rural areas. However, during the year 1974-75, the policy of mini-camps were adopted. These camps are held at primary health centres, urban welfare centres and at district and tehsil hospitals. An extra expenditure of Rs. 5 per case is allowed.

Some Associations: Voluntary organisations have been recognised for playing an important role in the field of family welfare. Some of these are: the Family Planning Association of India, Indian Medical Association, Central Bharat Sevak Samaj, Indian Red Cross Society, Trained Nurses Asssociation of India, Bharatiya Gramin Mahila Sangh, Indian Council of Social Welfare, the Christian Medical Association, the Rotary Clubs, the Lions Clubs and the Junior Chambers of Commerce etc. Many of these voluntary organisations are represented on the Central as well as on the State family welfare councils. In addition, the Ministries of Railways, Defence, Labour and Employment, and the Posts and Telegraphs Department have been participating in the National Family Welfare Programme. For commercial distribution of Nirodh, 12 consumer goods marketing companies are engaged in the work and it is estimated that 0.38 million retail shops are selling Nirodh.

Research: Research in demography, bio-medicine and communication is supported by the Government through suitable grants.

A high powered committee called the Committee on Socio-economic Studies on Family Welfare has been constituted to go into different aspects of the family welfare programme. This Committee advises and co-ordinates research on economic, sociological, educational, psychological, communicational and demographic aspects of population growth and family welfare. The Committee also reviews the progress of research work done and makes recommendations for development of research in these fields. It also reviews the working of the research centres dealing with population studies.

The International Institute for Population Studies (IIPS), Deonar, Bombay 400 088: Formerly known as Demographic Training and Research Centre, the Institute was established as a registered body in July 1956 and is a regional centre for the training of demographers from India and other ESCAP countries. It is supported by the United Nations and Government of India. The Institute conducts a Certificate course in Population Studies, and Diploma course in Population Studies. It also has a Ph.D. Programme leading to Ph.D. in Demography of the Bombay University. Apart from teaching the Institute undertakes researches in the field of population studies, including family welfare. It was renamed as International Institute for Population Studies in 1970.

Population Research Centres: The National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi, is responsible for undertaking family welfare researches. In addition, there are at present twelve demographic research centres like: Institute of Economic Research, Dharwar; Bureau of Economics and Statistics, Government of Kerala, Trivandrum; Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, Pune; Department of Statistics, M.S. University, Vadodara; Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta; Institute of Economic Growth, Delhi; Department of Statistics, University of Patna, Patna; Institute of Social and Economic Change, Bangalore; Department of Economics, University of Lucknow, Department of Statistics, Andhra University, Waltair; Department of Sociology, University of Udaipur; and Department of Anthropology, University of Utkal, Bhubaneshwar. In addition, there is Demographic Research Centre functioning in the Department of Statistics, Benaras Hindu University, Varanasi.

India Population Project: Since 1973, two experimental projects on family welfare have been initiated. The first project covers six districts of Uttar Pradesh and the second, five districts of Karnataka. These projects were run with assistance from the International Development Association to the extent of 21.2 million dollars in the form of a loan, and 10.6 million dollar grant from the Swedish International Development Authority. The emphasis in these projects is on the implementation of a maternity based family welfare programme both in urban and rural areas. An attempt has also been made to assess the effect of supplementary nutrition on the acceptance of family welfare in one district each in the two States and to Develop a better system of management information and evaluation. The implementation of the field programme has been divided into three broad categories namely, an urban programme in the cities of Lucknow and Bangalore; an optimal programme on the existing pattern in four districts of Uttar Pradesh and three districts of Karnataka; and an intensive rural programme in two districts of each of the States. A population centre is attached to each of these projects. The main function of the Centre is to carry out experimental and innovative studies in the field of family welfare and to experiment with new management techniques.

Research in Reproductive Biology and Fertility Control: Research in Reproductive Biology and Fertility Control is carried out at the Central Drug Research Institute, Lucknow; All-India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi; Rajasthan University; National Institute of Health & Family Welfare, New Delhi; Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore; Institute of Research in Reproduction, Bombay. The Indian Council of Medical Research provides technical advice and co-ordinates research work in the field of medical and bio-medical research.

Training: The training of family welfare instructors and key staff is undertaken by five training institutes, the National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi; the Institute of Rural Health and Family Welfare, Gandhigram; the All-India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health, Calcutta; the Family Welfare Training and Research Centre, Bombay; and the Central Health Education Bureau, New Delhi. There are 59 Family Welfare Training Centres at the State level functioning. Each State has a Central Family Welfare Field Unit which undertakes ad hoc training programmes. In order to overcome the acute shortage of Auxiliary Nurse Midwives in some States, the Family Welfare Department opened 25 new ANM training schools in 1970-71, ten in Bihar, ten in Uttar Pradesh and five in Orissa.

Oral Contraceptives: The Technical Committee on Family Planning recommended in June, 1971, that oral contraceptives may be tried both in urban and rural areas under some restricted conditions as an adjunct to the IUD programme. Till March 1979, 6,070 centres comprising of 3,684 rural centres, and 2,361 urban centres (excluding 25 centres of Tripura for which rural/urban break up is not available) were distributing pills throughout the country. During 1978-79, a total of 1,057,833 cycles of oral pills were distributed throughout the country. The oral pills are being distributed free of cost.

Copper 'T': The Government has agreed to include Copper T as a new loop in its programme. The Indian Medical Research Institute has found it effective. Out of a total of 551,808 IUD insertions in 1978-79, 176,339 were Copper T. Compared to the performance of Copper T insertion in 1977-78, the performance during 1978-79 has increased by more than three fold. It is likely the demand of Copper T will increase in future.

Medical Termination of Pregnancy Programme: Through this programme, abortions are conducted on persons requiring the same voluntarily by trained doctors in government hospitals and approved institutions. As per reports received upto March 1979, there were, 2,765 institutions approved for M.T.P. Since inception a total of 1,219,784 abortions have been terminated under this programme, out of which 312,754 were performed during 1978-79.

Conventional Contraceptives: Among the conventional contraceptives, Nirodh is widely used. It claims about 99 per cent of the total conventional contraceptive users. During the year 1978-79, about 252 million pieces were distributed out of which around 120 million pieces were distributed through commercial distribution and the rest free of cost. Presently 12 consumer goods marketing companies are engaged in this work and about 0.38 million retail shops are selling Nirodh.

Progress: The country's birth rate for 1978-79 was slightly higher than that for the previous year. Calculated on the basis of births averted through the family welfare programme, the rate was 33 per 1,000 during 1978-79 as compared to 32.9 for 1977-78.

The number of births averted in 1978-79 was 4.93 million, while the corresponding achievement in the preceding year was 5.05 million.

The total number of births averted up to the end of March 1979 since the inception of the family planning programme was 34.52 million.

However, the progress of the family welfare programme during 1978-79 was better than in the previous year. The number of voluntary sterilisations performed in 1978-79 was 1.48 million as compared to 0.95 million in 1977-78, representing a 52.6 per cent increase

The percentage of tubectomy operations performed during 1978-79 was, howevecr, lower at 73.8 as against 80.2 in 1977-78.

Since the launching of the family planning programme in the country, 29.6 million sterilisation operations have been performed up to the end of March 1979, giving a cumulative rate of 45.7 per 1,000 population.

The number of IUD insertions done in 1978-79 was 551,808 as against 325,680 in 1977-78, representing an increase of 64.7 per cent. The total of such insertions done from the beginning of the programme until March 31, 1979 was 7.5 million giving a cumulative rate of 11.6 per 1,000 population.

But in 1978-79, the actual performance, against the official "expectation" was less in all aspects of the programme. In the case of voluntary sterilisation while the expectation was 3.96 million the achievement was not more than 1.48 million.

There was a significant improvement in the community's acceptance of family welfare programme during the financial year 1978-79. The number of "acceptors" of any of the family planning techniques propagated under the official programme in 1978-79 was higher at 5.63 million as compared to 4.53 million in 1977-78. representing a percentage increase in the number of acceptors was highest in the case of voluntary vasectomy operations.

In percentage terms, this was 108.0. The improvement recorded by other family planning technicians in 1978-79 over the previous year was 69.4 per cent (IUD), 43.6 per cent (tubectomy) and 10.8 per cent (for conventional contraceptives including oral pills).

Up to the end of March, 1979, the number of eligible couples effectively protected by the programme was 25.06 million, out of the total 110 million such couples in the country. Thus, the percentage of protected couples was 22.8.

Religion and Family Welfare: The religion-wise distribution of sterilisation and IUD insertions based on 1977-78 revised estimates of the Department of Family Welfare are given in the table in next column.

New Legislation: The Medical Termination of Pregnancy was passed in 1972 and is designed to substantially liberalise legal provisions to resort to abortion in cases where contraceptives fail to prevent conception.

According to the National Population Policy announced by the Government of India on April 16, 1976, it was proposed to raise the legal minimum age of females at marriage from 16 to 18 years. The Child Marriage Restraint (Amendment) Act, 1978, which came into effect from 1-10-1978, provides for raising the minimum age of marriage in respect of girls to 18 years and in respect of boys to 21 years. The government has also taken preliminary steps to introduce population education in schools and colleges.

According to the revised statement of policy released on 29-6-1977, family planning will be pursued vigorously as a wholly voluntary programme and an integral part of comprehensive policy covering education, health, maternity and child care, family welfare, women's rights and nutrition.

PUBLIC HEALTH

(For the addresses of the Research Institutes mentioned in the chapter please refer to 'Research' chapter)

HEALTH programmes are primarily the responsibility of the State Governments. The Centre is, however, directly responsible even for the State subjects in the Union Territories.

For the year 1979-80 the Planning Commission has provided in the Annual Plan an outlay of Rs. 2.681.8 million. Budget estimates (1979-80) under State and Central Sectors respectively were Rs. 1,112.1 million and Rs. 1,569.7 million.

The Sixth Plan outlay on Health and Family Welfare Scheme is Rs. 28,300 million out of which Rs. 18,200 million is for health and Rs. 10,100 million for family welfare schemes.

Rural Health: The Central Health and Family Welfare Ministry drafted a plan for the development and extension of health care services in the rural areas at an expenditure of Rs. 4,860 million over the next four years. It proposes to provide health services at the villager's doorstep through 580,000 community health workers and another 580,000 midwives after a short term training in the preventive and promotional aspects of health care. It envisages one man and one woman multipurpose worker for every 5,000 people by 1984-85. Manpower will be drawn from among those below 30 years with minimum formal education up to the sixth standard. The workers, covering every village with a population of 1,000 will be selected by the community itself and trained in groups of 20 for three months. The target of training is 580,000 community health workers at the country's 5,372 community health centres. Since the inception of the Community Health Volunteers' Scheme 14,213 persons have been trained upto 30th Sept., 1979, and all these workers have been supplied with manuals, kits and drugs.

Hospitals & Dispensaries: The number of hospitals and dispensaries (as on Dec. 31, 1977) was 16,432 out of which 6,353 were in the urban areas and the rest rural. The number of beds available in the urban areas was 322,552 and in the rural 104,182. At the end of March, 1978 the total number of hospitals in the country was 5,100 and dispensaries was 12,500.

Doctor-Population Ratio: At the end of 1977-78 was 1:3,730 and that of nurse was 1:5,870. The number of economically active doctors in India in 1977-78 was 170,000.

Population Ratio per Doctor in States/Territories (1981): Uttar Pradesh 16,677; Haryana 15,444; Assam 11,879; Andhra 11,568; Madhya Pradesh 11,546; Karnataka 9,779; Rajasthan 9,656; Orissa 9,377; Himachal 7,514; Jammu & Kashmir 6,996; Tripura 6,851; Meghalaya 6,422; Bihar 4,746; Manipur 4,131; Nagaland 3,425; Sikkim 3,115; Gujarat 2,603; Kerala 2,491; Punjab 1,826; West Bengal 1,760; Tamil Nadu 1,653; Maharashtra 1,557; Others 12,172; Dadra and Nagar Haveli 4,300; Arunachal 3,231; Andaman & Nicobar Islands 3,000; Pondicherry 2,806; Lakshadweep 2,692; Goa 1,243.

Air Pollution: The atmospheric pollution in cities like Delhi, Calcutta, Bombay and Kanpur has increased between 50 and 100 per cent since 1957. This affects the health of the people. The National Environmental Engineering Research Institute, Nagpur is studying the effects of air pollution in Bombay. A national network of sampling for air quality has been set up in nine cities (viz. Delhi, Calcutta, Madras, Kanpur, Bombay, Ahmedabad, Hyderabad, Jaipur and Nagpur).

The Union Government has set up an expert committee to study the general problem of air pollution and to suggest ways and means including a draft legislation to control them. Government of India has decided to set up many stations to measure air pollution in all major cities. A beginning would be made with 10 of them being located in schools or colleges of Delhi with the help of teachers. A provision of Rs. 15 million was made in the Fifth Plan for water and air pollution control to meet the cost of establishment of a Central Water Board and for extending financial assistance to State Governments and Union Territories for necessary studies in this subject.

Cancer: About 425,000 people die every year from cancer in India. There are 84 centres where facilities for cancer treatment are available in the form of surgery, radium etc. The State-wise break-up is: Andhra Pradesh 7, Assam 4, Bihar 2, Delhi 6, Gujarat 5, Karnataka 6, Kerala 3, Maharashtra 15, Orissa 2, Punjab (including Haryana) 5, Rajasthan 6, Tamil Nadu 13, Uttar Pradesh 5, and West Bengal 5. During the Fifth Plan it was proposed to strengthen the treatment facilities by providing radio-therapy units at medical college hospitals and important district hospitals with Cobalt beam. A sum of Rs. 30 million has been provided for this purpose. The Cancer Foundation had offered a donation of Rs. 4 million for setting up of a Rotary Cancer Hospital at the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi.

Research is conducted at the Cancer Research Institute, Parel, Bombay; the Cancer Institute, 110 Mount Road, Madras 600018; the Chittaranjan National Cancer Research Centre, Calcutta; Radium Institute and Cancer Hospital, Hyderabad; J.K. Institute of Radiology and Cancer Research, Kanpur; International Cancer Centre, Neyoor, Tamil Nadu and S.N. Medical College, Agra. Field Research stations for official facilities have also been established at Chandernagore, Hooghly, West Bengal and Madras. The Indian Council of Medical Research has started a study of cancer of the cervix at the Lady Hardinge Medical College and Safdarjang Hospital in New Delhi.

Cholera: The endemic areas are Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Orissa, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal. Considerable decline had been noticed in the incidence and deaths due to Cholera during the year 1979. From 1st January to 31st October 1979, 8,909 cases and 253 deaths were reported as against 10.834 cases and 269 deaths during the whole of 1978. From 1st January to 31st October, 1979 4,021 cases and 253 deaths were reported as against 10.834 cases and 269 deaths during the whole of 1978.

The introduction of Oral Rehydration Therapy has proved very effective in the control of cholera and other diarrhoral diseases. 46 cholera combat teams are functioning in different parts of the country.

Diabetes: The urban population in the country is more prone to diabetes than its counterparts in rural areas. On a rough estimate at the end of 1972 about 5.5 million people were suffering from diabetes in India. Of them, urban area's share was 3.3 million.

Filaria: The National Filaria Control Programme has been in operation since 1955-56. About 236 million persons are endemic for filaria. 18 million persons have been detected as micro-filaria carriers and 14 million are chronic filaria patients. At present 157 Filaria control units, 46 filaria clinics, and 22 survey units are functioning in 15 States/Union Territories endemic for filariasis. These units protect 23 million urban population.

The headquarters of the programme is located at the National Institute of Communicable Diseases, Delhi. Training in filariology is being imparted at the Regional Filaria Training and Research Centres located each at Calicut (Kerala), Rajamundry (Andhra Pradesh) and Varanasi (Uttar Pradesh). These centres are also responsible for the field evaluation of the programme, and research in various aspects of filariasis.

Pilot programmes for the control of filariasis in rural areas were introduced in three districts, viz. Srikakulam (Andhra), Valsad (Gujarat) and Jaunpur (Uttar Pradesh) since 1978, which cover about 5 million of the population.

Goitre: Endemic goitre is a nutritional deficiency disease and is prevalent in the southern slopes of the Himalayas covering a distance of 2,414 kms. About 40 million people live on this goitre belt which consists of northern parts of Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Bihar, West Bengal, Nagaland, Arunachal Pradesh and Manipur. The persons affected with goitre are estimated to be about 8 to 10 million. The Central Goitre Survey Teams have completed initial goitre surveys.

The National Goitre Control Programme includes the manufacture of iodised salt at Sambhar Salt Ltd. (Sambhar Lake) in Rajasthan, Hindustan Salt Ltd. (Kharaghoda) in Gujarat and Govt. Salt Golah (Howrah, Calcutta). The production in these establishments was 48,000, 68,000 and 68,000 tonnes respectively in 1978-79. Two plants, with UNICEF assistance, were proposed to be set up at Gauhati, Assam to cater to the needs of Mizoram and districts of Goalpara and Kamrup of Assam State were expected to produce 48,000 tonnes of iodised salt per year.

Influenza: An Influenza Centre was opened in 1950 at the Pasteur Institute, Coonoor, Tamil Nadu, to undertake study of and research in problems relating to influenza. The centre co-operates with the World Influenza Centre, London and other influenza centres organised by the WHO in different parts of the world.

Leprosy: It has been estimated that 3.2 million people in India are suffering from leprosy out of which about 25 per cent are of the infectious type and 25 per cent suffer from deformities.

The National Leprosy Control Programme was launched in the year 1955 to control the spread of the disease and to provide modern treatment facilities to the leprosy patients. The following components have been established under the above programme: Leprosy control units: 381; Survey, eradication and treatment centres: 6,590; Urban leprosy centres: 430; Temporary hospitalisation wards: 190; Voluntary leprosy control units: 42, No. of beds provided 31,800.

The Central Leprosy Training and Research Institute, Chingleput (Tamil Nadu), Regional Leprosy Training Institute, Aska (Orissa) and Regional Leprosy Training & Research Institute, Raipur (Madhya Pradesh) are the Regional Training and Research Institutions under the Central Govt

Assistance to certain research programmes is received from the WHO in the form of equipment and drugs.

Private organisations also take active part in controlling leprosy. These include the Leprosy Mission, Hind Kushta Nivaran Sangh (the Indian Leprosy Association), Gandhi Memorial Leprosy Foundation (for addresses refer to the chapter on 'Institutions for the Handicapped') and 3 R' Society, C/o Tata Dept. of Plastic Surgery, Balaram Bldg., J.J. Group of Hospitals, Bombay 400008. In addition four centres helped by international agencies are also functioning. They include the French Centre in Andhra Pradesh, ELEP Centre and Swedish Mission Hospital in Tamil Nadu, and JALMA in Uttar Pradesh.

The Reconstruction Surgery Programme is receiving increasing attention of the Government of India and leprosy patients with deformities of hands, feet and face get facilities of corrective surgery now in about 30 hospitals in India.

Malaria: The incidence of the disease which used to be 75 million cases per year in 1952 has been reduced to about 0.1 million total cases in 1965. But due to world-wide shortage of DDT and BHC, and increase in their prices, spraying was limited causing an increase in the incidence of malaria. In 1975 there were 5.1 million cases which again were brought down to 1.7 million in 1979. Mortality due to malaria which in 1952 was estimated at 0.75 million deaths, is now a rarity. Deaths due to Malaria during 1979 were 62. Incidence of Malaria during 1976 was the highest in recent years, viz. 6,467,215. In order to tackle the growing incidence of Malaria a modified plan of operation at an estimated cost of Rs. 658.7 million per annum was implemented since April 1, 1977. There are at present 393,250 NMEP units functioning in the country covering a population of 535 million. The remaining population reside in areas which were never malaria endemic.

The National Institute for Communicable Diseases is responsible for research and field investigations and for the training of unit medical officers and district health officers in methods of malaria eradication. Other categories of health personnel are trained by the regional co-ordinating organisations established at Bangalore, Vadodara, Bhubaneswar, Hyderabad, Lucknow and Shillong.

Smallpox: As a result of intensive campaign carried out in 1974-75 with the help of the World Health Organisation, smallpox has been eradicated from the country. No smallpox case has been reported since May 1975. 9,597,687 primary vaccinations and 10,573,439 revaccinations against smallpox have been given during 1979 (upto Sept.).

Trachoma: Trachoma infection is highly endemic in the States of Punjab including Haryana (79.1 per cent), Rajasthan (74.3 per cent), Uttar Pradesh (68.1 per cent), and Gujarat (56.0 per cent). The States of Madhya Pradesh (41.3 per cent), Bihar (35.0 per cent), Assam (25.2 per cent), and Karnataka (22.6 per cent), are considered to be moderately endemic areas where the prevalence is more than 20 per cent but less than 50 per cent. The low endemic areas are the States of Jammu and Kashmir (16.8 per cent), Maharashtra (11.2 per cent), Kerala (8.7 per cent), Andhra Pradesh (5.3 per cent), Tamil Nadu (4.6 per cent), Orissa (2.7 per cent) and West Bengal (0.5 per cent).

About 45 million people are suffering from visual impairment and over 9 million are blind including 6 million who can be cured by surgery. Due to nutrition deficiency about 2 million people lost their eye-sight.

A National Plan for prevention of Visual Impairment and Control Blindness including Trachoma Control was drawn up with the main objective of providing eye-health care services to the community with emphasis on prevention and treatment. The control strategy of the programme includes (1) health education to the community; (2) temporary measures to provide immediate and comprehensive eye health care by establishing mobile units in different parts of the community and (3) creation of permanent infrastructure for eye care in general health services. International co-operation is being extended by WHO/UNICEF, UNDP etc. for the programme. Besides Danish International Development Agency has provided an assistance of Rs. 85 million for mobile units, and to strengthen PHCs and District hospitals. Financial assistance is being provided to voluntary organisations for organising eye-camps in rural areas.

Tuberculosis: There are at present 600 T.B. clinics in the country including 318 upgraded District T.B. centres. Approximately, 42,700 T.B. beds have been established. There are 17 T.B. demonstration and training centres.

It is estimated that the number of active cases is nearly 9 million of which 2.25 million are infectious. Almost all of the 3,119 towns and urban areas and 575,936 villages are affected by tuberculosis. The Government of India proposes to have one BCG team in every district. The 300 BCG teams currently functioning in various States and Union Territories.

The National Tuberculosis Institute of India, Bangalore 560003, established by the Government of India in 1959 is responsible for formulating and continuous evaluation of India's National Tuberculosis Programme. It carries out applied research in tuberculosis, epidemiology, bacteriology and BCG vaccination, sociological studies as well as operations research. This institute also arranges for the training of tuberculosis programme workers. There are two more research institutions at Madanapalle, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu. Training is also imparted at other institutions, such as Vallabhbhai Patel Chest Institute, Delhi.

The B.C.G. Vaccine Laboratory, Guindy, Madras is one of the largest B.C.G. producing laboratories in the world, manufacturing freeze dried vaccine. India is self-sufficient in B.C.G. vaccine.

Venereal Diseases: India has an estimated 20 million people suffering from V.D. which comes to nearly 20 per cent of the reproductive age group. About 5 per cent of the total population suffers from syphilis and an equal percentage from gonorrhoea. Yaws is prevalent in a few districts of Andhra Pradesh, Orissa, Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra.

V.D. control schemes are sponsored by the Union Government, which gives all the money needed to the States and Union Territories. In India, 187 V.D. clinics function, whilst some hospitals have special wards for V.D. patients. A mobile V.D. unit at Safdarjang Hospital, New Delhi, has started functioning since July 1973. Sufficient quantity of VDRL antigen is produced in the country. During 1978 (upto Oct.) 303,120 V.D. cases were examined in the V.D. clinics. During 1979-80 about 452,640 patients were suffering from S.T.D. (Venereal Diseases) in various States & Territories.

Training: Facilities are available in the V.D. Training Centre, Safdarjang Hospital, New Delhi, and the Institute of Venereology, Government General Hospital, Madras. Apart from these institutions, a few colleges have a venereological department.

National Water Supply and Sanitation Programme: This programme was launched in 1954. During the three Plan periods and three Annual Plans, about 418,700 new wells were constructed and 304,000 new hand-operated tubewells were bored. In addition about 554,000 old wells were renovated.

Nearly 36,000 villages with a population of 21.6 million have been provided with water supply. For the water supply and sanitation sector the Fifth Plan had allocated Rs. 10,206 million against Rs. 4,105.3 million in the Fourth Plan. The proposed priorities were (i) to cover remaining 116,000 villages; (ii) to intensify efforts for provision of water supply in urban areas; (iii) to increase the efforts for the conversion of dry latrines into sanitary latrines and (iv) to increase efforts to provide and demonstrate modern methods of garbage collection and disposal.

The programme also provides for the training of public health engineering personnel. The training programme is being implemented at the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute, Matunga, Bombay 400019, the All India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health, Calcutta, the Engineering College, Guindy, Tamil Nadu and the Engineering College, Roorkee, Uttar Pradesh. The Central Public Health Engineering Organisation (C/o Min. of Health and Fly. Welfare) has been set up for helping State Governments in the preparation and execution of their schemes and for giving technical advice and guidance. Similar organisations have also been established in most of the States.

HEALTH EDUCATION: The Central Health Education Bureau at Temple Lane, Kotla Road, New Delhi 110002, established in November 1956, co-ordinates and promotes health education in the country through Health Education Bureaux established in the States and Union Territories.

The Bureau conducts a one-year Diploma in Health Education under the auspices of the University of Delhi and conducts in-service training programmes for health and family planning personnel such as, medical officers, mass education and information officers, media personnel etc. It conducts research on behavioural aspects of health and develops health education curricula for different age groups of students and teacher training courses. The Bureau organises exhibitions, maintains a film library and produces educational and publicity materials for National Health Programmes and programmes for promoting MCH nutrition and immunisation and against the menace of food and drug adulteration.

Publications: The Central Health Education Bureau publishes monthly journals Swasth Hind (English) and Arogya Sandesh (Hindi) for general readers and Directorate General of Health Services Chronicle for medical personnel.

It also produces health education material — folders, pamphlets, posters, filmstrips, etc. for use by health personnel and the general public.

FOOD AND NUTRITION: Several measures are being taken to meet the nutritional deficiency of certain vulnerable groups such as industrial workers, expectant and nursing mothers and school children. Skim milk powder supplied by UNICEF and other organisations is distributed to children and expectant and nursing mothers. Midday meals are provided to about 13.1 million primary school children. Other schemes being implemented are protein supplement to the diet of the vulnerable groups, opening of canteens in industrial concerns and offices and manufacture and popularisation of cheap and nutritious food.

Malnutrition is one of the major factors responsible for high mortality and morbidity in India. Nutrition divisions have been established in Health Dept. of 18 States and two Union Territories to tackle the problem of malnutrition. Those divisions assess the incidence of nutritional deficiencies among various groups, conduct nutrition education campaigns and supervise supplementary feeding programmes.

Quality control over food articles is exercised under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 (amended in Feb. 1976). Excepting Maharashtra, Assam and Kerala where the States have taken the responsibility, in all other States the work is left to the local bodies. The Director-General of Health has established a Food Squad under the Act to check adulteration of food at inter-state level.

Central Food Laboratories: The Prevention of Food Adulteration Act (amended in 1976) provides for the establishment of (four) Central Food Laboratories, viz. Public Health Laboratory, Pune (West Zone); Central Food Technological Research Institute, Mysore (Southern Zone); Food Research and Standardisation Laboratory, Ghaziabad (Northern Zone) and Central Food Laboratory, Calcutta (Eastern Zone).

The Govt. of India proposes to have regular refresher training course at Central Food Technological Research Institute, Mysore, for analysts working in the country.

A two weeks' refresher course for senior Health Officers and administrators in the implementation of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act is imparted in collaboration with the Indian Institute of Public Administration at New Delhi.

MEDICAL EDUCATION: There are 106 medical colleges with over 13,000 annual admissions in the country.

Dental Education: There are now 17 dental institutions, all affiliated to universities, training students for the degree of Bachelor of Dental Surgery (B.D.S.), having facilities for about 615 admissions. Eleven of these institutions have post-graduate degree courses leading to M.D.S.

(Refer to the chapter on "Education" for the list of dental institutions.)

Pharmacy:.(See chapter on "Education". for institutes and/or universities teaching pharmacy.)

POPULATION

CURRENT Position: India's total population touched 648 million on 1st March, 1981. This represents an increase of 24·75 per cent since 1971 when the population was 548 million.

Census: Most of the population data in India is available from the census. The first synchronous census in India was taken in 1881, and since then a census has been taken every tenth year. The last of the series is the Census of 1981 which gives the population count as of the sunrise of 1st March 1981. Generally the census count in India refers to the sunrise of 1st March, but because of the mid-term General Election the census date of the 1971 Census was shifted by one month and it refers to the sunrise of 1st April, 1971.

The 1981 Census: The enumeration of the 1981 Census began on 9th February, 1981 and ended on 28th February 1981. A revisional round was conducted during 1st to 5 March, 1981 to up-to-date the figures for the sunrise of 1st March, 1981. The houseless persons were enumerated on the night of 28th February 1981.

The 1981 Census was conducted synchronously in all the States and Union Territories except for Assam and Jammu and Kashmir. In Jammu and Kashmir the enumeration was done from 20th April to 5th May, 1981 with the reference date being the sunrise of 6th May, 1981. The revisional round was conducted during 6th to 10th May 1981. In Assam, census could not be conducted synchronously because of the disturbed conditions. In order to determine the total population of the country as on 1st March 1981, the population of Assam has been borrowed from the estimates of the Expert Committee on Population Projections set up by the Planning Commission.

The Census Organisation on the basis of the 1981 Census has published provisional population totals and few other informations. In the present section the figures have been updated wherever available and the remaining are based on the previous census.

Size: The size of India's population in 1981 was 683,782,461 persons comprising of 353,419,467 males and 330,362,894 females.

Growth: India's population which was 238 million in 1901 increased to 361 million in 1951 and to 684 million in 1981. Thus, in the first half of the present century, that is, during 1901–51, India's population increased by about 51·5 per cent whereas in the next thirty years during 1951–81 it increased by nearly 89·4 per cent.

The rate of growth of India's population till the 1971 Census was slow and since then it has tended to increase at a faster rate. During the period 1921–51, India's population increased at a moderate rate but after the 1951 census it increased at an accelerated rate because of decline in death rate caused by health programme initiated by the government to control eradication of epidemic and communicable diseases. It may be mentioned that during the decade 1911–21, India's population experienced a negative growth, excess of deaths over births, due to natural calamities and epidemics. During the inter-censal period 1961–71 the population increased by 24·80 per cent. Again, during 1971 81 the population experienced a growth of 24·75 per cent. This signifies that the growth of India's population has somewhat stabilised and may start declining with decline in fertility levels.

Growth of Population from 1901-1981

Year	Persons	Per cent Decade Variation
1901	238,396,327
1911	252,093,390	5·75
1921	251,321,213	(—) 0·31
1931	278,977,238	11·00
1941	318,660,580	14·22
1951	361,088,090	13·31
1961	439,234,771	21·51
1971	548,159,652	24·80
1981	683,782,461	24·74

Future Growth: The recent increase in India's growth rate is due to a fall in death rate and not due to any increase in birth rate. Death rate has declined by nearly fifty per cent during the past 70 years. Reliable figures of birth and death rates are not available in India because of the deficiency of the registration data. Efforts are being made by the Registrar-General of India to improve the quality of the registration data and a scheme called the Sample Registration System has been launched in different parts of India. The object of the scheme is to have sample areas, both urban and rural, in different States and Union Territories and to obtain reliable birth and death data in these areas. Most reliable estimates, however, point out that the Birth rate in India in 1961 was around 43 and Death rate around 21 per 1,000 population. The sample registration system has estimated that birth rate in 1978 was 33·3 and the death rate 14·2. The birth rate in the rural areas was 34·7 and in the urban areas, 27·8, whereas, the death rate was 15·3 and 9·4 respectively. It is estimated that the death rate might decline still further and reach the low level of 10 per 1,000 population by 1990 or so. Birth rate would, therefore, be the crucial factor in determining the future growth of India's population.

Expectation of Life and Death Rate: The expectation of life at birth for males and females in the country was 53·87 years and 52·93 years, respectively, as on October 1, 1981. (See chapter on Public Health.)

State-wise Growth Rate: The decennial growth rate of 1971–81 shows that the highest rate was observed in the Union Territory of Chandigarh followed by Andaman and Nicobar Islands and Delhi. In case of States, the highest rate was observed in Sikkim followed by Nagaland, Assam, Manipur and Tripura. The differential growth rate is due to differences in birth and death rates and in internal migration.

Age Structure: One of the consequences of high birth rate is that India has a very 'young' population. Nearly 42·0 per cent of India's population in the 1971 Census was below the age of 15 years and only 6·0 per cent of the population was aged 60 years and over.

Income Structure: The average per capita income in the country has shown marginal increase in 1978–79 compared with the previous year.

The average per capita income in 1978–79 was Rs. 1,249 at current prices and Rs. 712 at the 1970-71 prices.

In 1977-78, the average per capita income in India was Rs. 1,189 at current prices and Rs. 697 at 1970-71 prices.

Infant Mortality: (See chapter on Public Health).

Rural-Urban: A very large proportion of India's population live in rural areas. However, urban population has grown from about 9 per cent in 1881 to about 20 per cent in 1971. Leaving aside the Union Territories, the most urbanised State in India is Maharashtra, in which about 31 per cent of the population were found living in urban areas at the time of the 1971 Census. Assam, Himachal Pradesh, Nagaland and Orissa States have less than 10 per cent urban population.

Sex-wise Rural-Urban Break-up of Population

Urban	109,113,977	58,729,333	50,384,644

In the 1971 Census it was observed that about 48·9 per cent of the urban population of India lives in towns having a population of 100,000 and more. The corresponding figure for 1961 was 44·5 per cent. The growth of population in towns of large size is generally greater than in medium and small towns. In case of Class V towns (population size between 5,000 to 9,999), however, the population decreased during the decade 1961-71. As per 1971 Census, there are only 9 cities which have population of one million and above and these are Calcutta, Greater Bombay, Delhi, Madras, Hyderabad, Ahmedabad, Bangalore, Kanpur and Pune.

The following are nine metropolitan cities in India :—

1.	Calcutta Urban Agglomeration	7,031,382
2.	Greater Bombay	5,970,575
3.	Delhi Urban Agglomeration	3,647,023
4.	Madras Urban Agglomeration	3,169,930
5.	Hyderabad Urban Agglomeration	1,796,339
6.	Ahmedabad Urban Agglomeration	1,741,522
7.	Bangalore Urban Agglomeration	1,653,779
8.	Kanpur City Urban Agglomeration	1,275,242
9.	Pune Urban Agglomeration	1,135,034

A city is regarded as metropolitan when its population exceeds one million.

Sex Ratio: There are more males than females in India. In 1961 the sex ratio was 941 females per 1,000 males and in 1971 it decreased to 932 females per 1,000 males. Differential mortality by sex may be responsible for this disparity in sex ratio. However, in the 1981 Census the situation improved and the sex ratio works out to 935 females per 1,000 males. Probably during the decade 1971-81 the females gained comparatively more from the health programmes than the males. Only in Kerala the sex ratio is favourable to females and in other places it is favourable to males. In Haryana, Nagaland, Punjab, Sikkim, Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal, Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Arunachal Pradesh, Chandigarh and Delhi the sex ratio is highly favourable to males where it is estimated to be less than 900 females per 1,000 males.

Literacy: Literacy which is defined as capacity to read and write with understanding in any language was as low as 5·8 per cent in 1891 and only 9·5 per cent in 1931. In 1981 it had increased to 36·2 per cent. Male literacy was found to be nearly 47 per cent and female literacy was found to be about 25 per cent. Rural areas have lower literacy rate than urban areas.

Religious break-up: According to the 1971 Census 82·7 per cent of India's population belonged to the Hindu religion and about 11·2 per cent to the Muslim religion. The percentage of the Christians and the Sikhs was 2·6 and 1·9 respectively.

Religions	Number	Percentage to total population	Percentage increase in 1961–71
Hindus	453,436,630	82·72	23·69
Muslims	61,418,269	11·20	30·84
Christians	14,225,045	2·59	32·58
Sikhs	10,378,891	1·89	32·28
Buddhists	3,874,942	0·71	17·33
Jains	2,604,837	0·48	28·49
Scheduled Castes	80,005,398	14·60	24·14
,, Tribes	38,015,162	6·94	26·00

Age at Marriage: In India, age at marriage is very low because of the prevalence of child marriages. From time to time suitable legislations have been passed specifying the minimum age at marriage for boys and girls. Nevertheless, a sizeable number of boys and girls seem to be married below the specified minimum age. However, the age at marriage shows an increasing trend over the decades which is an indicator of social change.

Decade	Age at marriage
	Males	Females
1921–31	18·4	12·5
1931–41	20·3	14·4
1941–51	19·9	15·4
1951–61	21·8	15·4
1961–71	22·2	17·2

Age at Widowhood: It was found in the 1911 Census that 17·3 per cent of the females were widows. This percentage declined to 15·5 in 1931 and to 8·9 in 1971. The mean age at widowhood of those who are widowed by age 45 was found to be 34 years in the 1951–61 decade and 34·8 years in the 1961–71 decade.

Fertility: The fertility of Indian women is high and about 5·5 children are born to a couple who remain married throughout the reproductive period. This average number is, however, reduced to 5 when all ever-married women, that is, those who are widowed, divorced or separated are considered.

The pattern of age-specific fertility among females between the ages 15-44 shows that highest fertility exists among females in the ages between 25 to 29 years. The fertility curve shows a low but significant rate in the ages 15-19 years, a sharp rise in the age group 20-24 and 25-29 and a sharp decline after the age of 35.

Of the children born in a year roughly 62 per cent in rural India and 67 per cent in urban India are of first-three order births and 38 per cent and 33 per cent are of the fourth and higher order birth. About 23·5 per cent and 25·3 per cent are first order births, 20·9 and 23·5 per cent second order births, 17·2 and 17·8 per cent are third order births, 13·7 and 12·4 per cent fourth order births, 9·7 and 7·7 per cent fifth order births, and about 15·2 and 13·7 per cent sixth and higher order births in rural and urban India respectively.

There is some evidence to indicate that fertility of those women who are educated above Matriculation and also of those who marry after the age of 19 is lower than of those who are less educated or marry earlier.

Working Force: According to the 1971 Census, roughly 33 per cent of the population of India was in the working force. About 53 per cent of the males and 12 per cent of the females were workers. Slightly larger proportion of the rural population was in working force. The work participation rate by residence shows that 33·8 per cent of the rural population (53·5 per cent male and 13·1 per cent female) was in working force whereas 29·3 per cent of the urban population (48·8 per cent male and 6·6 per cent female) was in working force. The maximum participation rate was in age groups 25 to 59, it was around 95 per cent among males and around 20 per cent among females.

The work participation rate of 1971 cannot be compared with that of any of the earlier censuses because of change in definition. In the 1961 Census 43 per cent of the total population was recorded as workers. According to the Registrar-General of India, the concept of worker at the 1961 Census tended to inflate workers as persons who were basically non-workers like housewives, students, etc., were included in the category of workers even though their participation was very marginal.

Among the workers as given in the 1971 Census, nearly 43 per cent were cultivators, 26 per cent agricultural labourers and nearly 31 per cent were engaged in other occupations. In the rural areas nearly 52 per cent of the workers were cultivators, 31 per cent were agricultural labourers and 17 per cent were engaged in other occupations. In urban areas nearly 5 per cent of the workers were cultivators, 6 per cent agricultural labourers and 89 per cent are engaged in other occupations.

Poverty Line: At least 294 million people in the rural and urban areas were living below the poverty line during 1977-78 under the norms adopted by the Planning Commission.

First Six States Area-wise: Madhya Pradesh (442,841 sq. kms.); Rajasthan (342,214 sq. kms.); Maharashtra (307,762 sq. kms.); Uttar Pradesh (294,413 sq. kms.); Andhra Pradesh (276,814 sq. kms.); and Gujarat (195,984 sq. kms.).

First Six States Population-wise: Uttar Pradesh (110,858,019); Bihar (69,823,154); Maharashtra (62,693,898); West Bengal (54,485,560); Andhra Pradesh (53,403,619); and Madhya Pradesh (52,131,717).

Language-wise Break-up: According to 1971 Census, about 25 million people or 4·5 per cent of the total population speak their mother tongue other than the 15 languages listed in the Constitution.

The break-down of the population in terms of the 15 Constitutional languages is as follows (figures in million): Assamese — 8·96; Bengali — 44·79; Gujarati — 25·87; Hindi — 208·51; Kannada — 21·71; Kashmiri — 2·50; Malayalam — 21·94; Marathi — 41·77; Oriya — 19·86; Punjabi — 14·11; Sindhi — 1·68; Sanskrit — 2,212 (persons); Tamil — 37·69; Telugu — 44·76; Urdu — 28·62.

Six Most Thickly Populated States: (figures per sq. km.): The six most thickly populated States, excluding the Union Territories, according to the 1981 Census are Kerala (654); West Bengal (564); Bihar (402); Uttar Pradesh (377); Tamil Nadu (371); and Punjab (331).

National Average Density: 221 per sq. km.

Density in Union Territories: (per sq. km.) (First three). Delhi (4,178); Chandigarh (3,948); Lakshadweep (1,257).

Population Projections upto 1991

(in Million)

Year	Males	Females	Total
1971	283·5	263·6	547·1
1976	315·4	293·7	609·1
1981	347·6	324·4	672·0
1986	379·8	355·3	735·1
1991	412·4	386·5	798·9

The project figures given above are of Projection III prepared by the Expert Committee on Population Projections set up by the Planning Commission and has been recommended for official use. Projection III is based on the assumption that birth rate in India will reach a level of thirty point by 1982-83 and thereafter it will reduce by one point every year. As a result of the decline in the birth rate, the percentage of population in the age group 0–14, which at the time of the 1971 Census was around 41·5 will come down to 34·3 in 1991. The working age population in the age group 15–59 will however, increase. Its percentage which in 1971 was 53·3 will increase to 59·3 in 1991. However, on 1st March 1981, about 683·8 million persons were enumerated in the country. Thus, the projected population fell short of the enumerated population by about 12 million.

The project is expected to contribute to raising the levels of small farmers income, expanding rural employment opportunities, and increasing availability of food to the rural and urban poor.

C) Provides additional resources to the Agricultural Refinance and Development Corporation to support its programme of refinancing loans by credit institutions such as cooperatives, land development banks and commercial banks, for minor irrigation activities including dugwells, tubewells, pumpsets, lift irrigation and land development. The project is expected to expand and increase access to credit, primarily for small farmers, and contribute to increased agricultural production, income and employment for small and marginal farmers and landless labourers.

d) Finances the imports of fertilizers to ensure availability of sufficient supplies in remote areas for use by the weaker sections. The project is expected to contribute to increased income and welfare of the small and marginal farmers by increasing their agricultural production through expanded use of fertilizer and associated practices.

e) As a complement to the loan project described above, this grant will finance U.S. and in-service training for Rajasthan State officials and engineers responsible for design, construction, operation, analyses and evaluation; and special studies such as base-line socio-economic surveys, water management studies, etc.

f) This grant finances the construction of additional subcentres, primary health centres, rural centres, rural centres and quarters for female workers; training of additional village level workers, dais, and subcentre level workers; and expanded services and support systems including base-line survey and needs assessment, communications, management information, etc. The project is expected to contribute to the Government of India's Model Plan for improved access to health and family planning services that promote fertility and mortality reduction in 13 districts of Maharashtra, Gujarat, Punjab, Haryana and Himachal Pradesh.

g) Gifts of U.S. blended food commodities of greater nutritional value have been imported for free distribution through U.S. Voluntary Agencies working in India and the U.N. World Food Programme. h) Gift imports of U.S. vegetable oil have been provided to the Cooperative League of U.S.A. in support of its programme of assistance in developing India's cooperative vegetable oil sector. Under this programme, U.S. donated oil is sold to generate funds for development of oilseed production and marketing system owned and controlled by farmers cooperatives. The project which is being implemented by the National Dairy Development Board, is expected to contribute to ease the supply of edible oils in India.

U.S.S.R.: The total value of Soviet long-term economic credits to India exceeds 1,475 million roubles. This amount is being utilised for the construction of more than 75 industrial and other projects in India. Among these projects there are steel plants in Bhilai and Bokaro with the capacity of 4 million tonnes of steel per annum each, oil refinery in Mathura with the capacity of 6 million tonnes of crude oil per year, two oil refineries at Koyali and Barauni with a capacity of 3 million tonnes each, Heavy Machine Building Plant in Ranchi, Heavy Electrical Equipment Project in Hardwar, power stations etc.

On March 14, 1979 the USSR and India signed Long-term Programme of Economic, Trade, Scientific and Technical co-operation between the two countries. The Programme is intended for the period of 10-15 years and envisages both: further development of co-operation in such traditional areas as ferrous and non-ferrous metallurgy, oil and coal industry, machine building, etc., and establishing co-operation in new areas, such as light, food, pulp & paper, building materials, industries, irrigation etc. The Programme also provides for setting up of production cooperation and specialisation, cooperation in designing and construction of projects in third countries, development of trade, scientific and technical ties.

In conformity with the long-term programme an intergovernmental agreement on co-operation in the construction of metallurgical plant at Visakhapatnam was signed on June 12, 1979, a feasibility report for the construction of alumina plant in Andhra Pradesh was prepared, a working programme of co-operation in oil industry for 1980-85 was signed, new projects of cooperation in coal industry were chalked out, some measures for the improvement of production capacity utilisation of machine-building plants set up in India with Soviet assistance were worked out. etc. Working Programmes of cooperation in a number of new areas and a Protocol on co-operation in Science and Technology were signed. Canada: The Canadian development assistance programme in India began in 1951 with grants of $ 10 million for food aid, $ 5 million for projects and equipment, and a small amount of technical equipment. Until the mid-60s the programme averaged around $25 million per year. Then, with the onset of the famine years, it grew rapidly to the $ 100 million level. From 1974-75 onwards, Canadian Aid is focussing specially on food grains, edible oils, fertilisers and small agricultural projects etc., keeping in view the Indian Govt.'s priority areas of development. In 1979-80 Canada provided a total of $ 47 million in development aid.

Commitments by Canada through the development assistance programme in India totalled $ 1,461.3 million as at the end (March 31) of fiscal year 1979-80. To this may be added export credits of $ 120 million, bringing the total programme of assistance to $1,581.3 million. Of the development assistance programme, which is administered by the Canadian International Development Agency, 65 per cent of commitments have been in the form of grants, and 35 per cent development loans (50-year maturity, 10-year grace period, with no interest or service charges). The export credits, administered by Canada's Export Development Corporation, have been on concessional terms varying with conditions at the time the credits were given.

Since India has become self-suficient in food grains as is evident in the last 3 years, Canadian aid will be diversified into other industrial sectors such as energy, transport, telecommunication, dairying etc. in the coming years in addition to the provision of grants for edible oil and loans for agricultural refinancing institutions and for the import of fertiliser material.

Technical assistance activities have included the provision of advisers in many fields and the training of around 1,300 Indians in Canada.

In addition to the above there is an active and growing programme of activities by Canadian non-governmental organisations (NGOs) in India.

Canada has been the fifth largest bilateral donor to India. in 1977-78 in terms of net aid transfers to India during that year.

Projects which receive Canadian aid are: Idukki Hydro-electric Project (Kerala); Kundah Hydro-electric Project (Tamil Nadu); Synthetic Rubber Plant (Koyali, near Vadodara); bulk fertiliser

BANKING

As many as 2,224 (1,735 in unbanked centres) new branches were opened between July, 1979 and June, 1980 against 2,191 during the previous year. Of these, 948 branches were opened by 20 nationalised banks, 354 by the State Bank of India and its subordinates, 209 by private sector banks, 713 by regional rural banks and two by foreign banks. The total number of bank offices stood at 32,419 on 30th June, 1980.

With the upsurge in rural banking there has been a significant diversification of bank credit to previously neglected sectors such as agriculture, small industries, transport, professionals and self employed persons, retail trade, export and food procurement. Bank credit to these sectors had gone up from Rs. 9,050 million in June, 1969 to Rs. 212,340 million in March, 1980.

During the year gross bank credit increased by Rs. 18,910 million as compared with an increase of Rs. 21,870 million during the corresponding period in 1978-79. There was a decline of Rs. 8,960 million in public food procurement credit as against Rs. 3,150 million during the previous year. Non-food gross credit, however, increased by Rs. 27,870 million as against Rs. 25,020 million in the earlier year.

The total deposits of all scheduled commercial banks increased from Rs. 46,460 million in June, 1969 to Rs. 229,319 million in June, 1978, Rs. 286,710 million in June, 1979 and Rs. 332,830 million in June, 1980.

Average population served by commercial banks improved from 19,000 at the end of December, 1978 to 17,000 at the end of December, 1979. It is 4,000 in Britain, 2,600 in France, 5,000 in the U.S., 5,500 in Japan and 1,300 in West Germany.

Working Results of Scheduled Commercial Banks: The working results of all 66 scheduled commercial banks indicate that their profits during 1979 increased by Rs. 80 million as compared with the rise of Rs. 40 million in 1978. The rising trend noticed in 1975 and 1976 was, however, not noticed in 1977 when their profits declined.

BULLION

GOLD: Quest for gold is centuries old, but, it has been available in any real quantity only for the last hundred and thirty years. The gold mined between 1492 and 1975, is estimated to be 80,000 tonnes. But more gold had been mined from 1800 to 1975 than in the preceding 5,000 years, due to more discoveries in Brazil, Russia, South Africa, California (U.S.A.), Australia and South America. More than three quarters of the total gold had been mined in the 20th century and little more than two-thirds of it since 1931. Since 1976 it is estimated that the gold production outside the communist world was 5,000 tonnes.

International Price of Gold: The price of gold in free markets fluctuated between $124 an ounce in January 1976 to $132 in January 1977 and later went up to $243.65 in October 31, 1978. The year 1979 ended with a record price of $524 an ounce in London and $534.5 in Comex (New York). The year 1980 began with $600.00 and ended with $606.50.

In January, 1975, the 126 countries of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) agreed to abolish the official price of gold, thus putting an end to the privileged role gold had been enjoying in the international monetary system since the end of World War II. The decision opened the way to the elimination of any reference to gold in the IMF statutes and amounted to a new step towards the release of gold stocks held by central banks.

The decision of the IMF to sell one-sixth of its gold to the market over a period of four years had a psychological impact on the Gold Market during 1976 and 1977; but in fact these sales represented less than eight per cent of total supplies.

Official Gold Holdings: The following table shows the value of gold holdings of central banks all over the world (except China, U.S.S.R. and associated countries) and of the I.M.F. in millions of Special Drawing Rights at 35 S.D. Rs per fine ounce.

Based on the market price of U.S. $217.10 ruling to September 1978, the world official gold holdings were valued at $246,958 million.

Gold Production and Consumption: Gold production in the free market in 1979 was 977 tonnes. Supplies of gold to the world market however fell by 18 per cent in 1980. There was less demand for gold to make jewellery during the year. Sales of the Soviet Union, the world's second largest producer after South Africa, fell to 80 tonnes in 1980 from 230 tonnes in 1979. The production cut was, however, met by individuals and governments, mostly from the Middle East and Iran which sold some 80 tonnes of gold to U.S.S.R. In 1979, India produced about 2.6 tonnes of gold.

The demand for gold touched 1,381 tonnes in 1970 while in 1973 it came down to 1,350 tonnes. Absorption of this in Europe was 780 tonnes and in the rest of the world 570 tonnes.

India absorbed about 63 tonnes in 1973 compared to 110 tonnes in 1972, 179 tonnes in 1971 and 217 tonnes in 1970. The demand in 1974 was only 14 tonnes while in 1975 and 1976 it went to 25 and 33 tonnes respectively. In 1977 and 1978 India absorbed a total of about 65 tonnes. In 1979 the gold demand was estimated at 120 tonnes and in 1980 at 80 tonnes due to consumer resistance against high prices. Most of the gold that came to India in the past was through unauthorised imports.

Gold Standard: The true gold standard existed only in the 50 years preceding World War I. Till the 19th century most countries were on silver or bimetallic (silver 15 or 16 part, gold one part) standard. Britain went into a formal gold standard in 1816. Europe followed in 1870s and U.S.A. started after 1900 — same as India. However, gold standard was only a phase and was over by 1914.

International gold exchange standard prevailed since the last war till 1973. It meant a country's monetary authority responsible for determining and managing the supply of gold to supplement their resources with key currencies, notably dollars and sterling, which could be redeemed for gold.

This pattern, however, changed when in February, 1973 the U.S.A. devalued its dollar for the second time in 14 months by 10 per cent.

An ounce of gold that for 37 years cost only $35 and which went, officially, to $38 in 1972, was worth $42.22 towards the end of 1973. In reality, no gold was traded at that price. In the wake of U.S. devaluation, the price of gold in London market shot up beyond expectations and the free price of gold at one time touched $198 per ounce in 1974.

In 1974, the U.S. withdrew the free convertibility of dollars with gold. Except in France, there had been no restoration of an international gold standard thereafter.

In the outside world, 1978 and 1979 were the years of much uncertainty and great fluctuations in the fortunes of gold.

In 1978 the price of gold in the international market fluctuated between $172.50 and $226.60 per ounce and in 1979 between $219.34 and $426.37.

India and Gold: Indian gold market is quite different from the international market. India has the world's largest stock of privately hoarded gold estimated unofficially at 5,000 tonnes against aggregate world stocks of 58,000 tonnes. The mobilisation of this gold could affect the international market also, besides improving the economic conditions in the country. But this is unlikely to happen unless a social revolution takes place. As a protective measure, India's hoarded gold should be coaxed into the market and also her output of 2.6 tonnes per year should be stepped up. The demand for jewellery is about 100 tonnes per year in India. About 60 per cent of this is supplied through recycling of fabrication.

Stocks of Gold in India: It was estimated that the total stocks of gold in the country in 1951 was 85.4 million ozs. Since 1951 to December, 1972, the smuggled gold was estimated at 58.1 million ozs. bringing the total stock to 143.5 million ozs. (4,600 tonnes or 4,600,000 kg.) as on December 31, 1972. The present stock of gold in India is estimated at 5,000 tonnes.

Gold Auction by Government: Before the auction took place in the first week of May, 1978 there was a tendency towards fall in price of gold. However, after initial fall the unofficial price of gold went up to as much as Rs. 720 per ten grammes. Slight fluctuations were recorded during May but the price never reached a level anticipated by the Government.

Unfortunately, by reason of the unprecedented world-wide speculation in gold that gathered momentum after August, 1978, the price of gold in the country went up by leaps and bounds and the Government was forced to suspend the gold auctions at the end of October after 14 auctions of which two were infructuous. The amount of gold sold by the auctions was 12.89 tonnes estimated at Rs. 365.5 million at the then prevailing price.

Since then the price of gold had gone up to as much as Rs. 1,800 per ten grammes in 1980 and at present ruling between Rs. 1,600 and Rs. 1,700.

Silver: The year 1979 witnessed the most astounding rise in the price of silver in living memory. Not only the price of silver in New York — the world's premier spot and future market for the white metal — escalated from 596.10 cents at the commencement of 1979 to 2,800.00 cents by the end of the year the yearly average which was 435.35 cents in 1976, 462.30 in 1977 and 540.09 cents in 1978, was lifted to 1,109.40 cents for 1979. This was truly fantastic rise brought about by competitive market forces. And in January, 1980, silver prices continued to scale new peaks, briefly touching $50.00 an ounce.

Among the principal reasons for this spectacular rise in the price of silver, is the persisting imbalance between demand for industrial uses and primary supply (i.e. newly mined production). It is estimated that in 1979, new production was only 271 million ounces against aggregate demand for 410 million ounces for industrial uses — out of this latter, India's share is estimated at about 19.00 million ounces.

The second important factor was the diminished supply from secondary sources i.e. dehoarding from previously accumulated stocks, as well as from salvage and recycling operations. In this context, the imposition of the ban on export of silver by the Government of India in February, 1979 played a big part. According to Handy & Harman's estimates, the quantity of Indian silver reaching world markets declined from 25.5 million ounces in 1978 to 14.5 million ounces in 1979. Of this about 10.0 million ounces must have left our shores through other channels.

The third reason for the rise in the price of silver which occurred after August, 1979 was the demand for silver on the part of speculators and private investors, as a safe channel for investment next to gold in a world troubled by economic and political uncertainties. The energy crisis, the double-digit inflation, the depreciating dollar etc contributed to fuel investment and speculative purchase of silver, pushing up the price to higher records. In February, 1980 in the Bombay market the silver was quoted at Rs. 5,000 per kg. Thereafter, of course the prices began to decline and ruled between Rs. 2,200 and Rs. 2,900 for the rest of the year.

NATIONAL INCOME

THE white paper on National Accounts Statistics published by the Central Statistical Organisation gives data relating to national product, per capita income and consumption, both at current and constant prices, rates of saving and capital formation, data on other related aggregates such as net national product at market prices, net domestic product from public sector by industry of origin, economic and purpose classification of expenditure of administrative departments and factor incomes, etc. The latest white paper on national income gives exhaustive information upto 1978-79. The Central Statistical Organisation has, however, released the " quick " estimates of national income and related aggregates for 1979-80.

According to these estimates, India's national income at constant prices, declined by 5·0 per cent to Rs. 443,280 million during 1979-80. The per capita income, also at constant prices, registered a fall of 6·8 per cent to Rs. 678 in 1979-80.

At current prices, the national income during 1979-80 rose by 11·0 per cent to Rs. 901,730 million and per capita by 8·8 per cent to Rs. 1,379.

The big drop in net national product in real terms in 1979-80 stemmed from the poor performance in agricultural sector whose net product was lower by 12·7 per cent as compared to 1978-79.

Consumption and Saving : Private final consumption, at current prices, was of the order of Rs. 736,910 million in 1979-80 and accounted for 68 per cent of the gross national product at market prices. The per capita private final consumption expenditure stood at Rs. 1,127 in that year as compared to Rs. 1,059 in 1978-79. However, at constant prices, there has been little improvement in private final consumption expenditure. This is evident from the fact that the per capita final consumption expenditure in real terms, was only Rs. 560 in 1979-80, as against Rs. 600 in 1978-79 and Rs. 583 in 1977-78.

Savings and Capital Formation : The rate of net domestic saving in 1979-80 declined to 16·1 per cent from 19·2 per cent in 1978-79 and that of net domestic capital formation to 16·6 per cent from 19·0 per cent.

Domestic saving during 1979-80 stood at Rs. 163,780 million — a decline of Rs. 12,990 million as compared to the preceding year. Likewise, net capital formation was lower by Rs. 5,010 million at Rs. 169·410 million in 1979-80.

Public Sector : One of the major developments in the Indian economy is the increasingly important role played by the public sector. This is brought out by the significant spurt in the gross product of the public sector which in 1979-80 is estimated at Rs. 200,320 million as compared to only Rs. 54,560 million in 1970-71. During this period, the share of the public sector in gross domestic product has increased from 14·9 per cent to 20·6 per cent.

Selected national income data are presented in the following tables.

ECONOMIC SITUATION

OVERALL POSITION

THE trends that have emerged in recent months paint a far from reassuring picture of the Indian economy during 1980-81. Although agricultural production is expected to increase sharply by about 19 per cent in contrast to a decline of 15.5 per cent in 1979-80, the industrial output continues to be more or less stagnant. A relentless upward spiral in prices, the unconscionable large doses of deficit financing and the massive trade deficit are some of the factors due to which the economic situation continues to be under constraint.

Growth Rate: The growth of Gross National Product (GNP) during 1980-81 is expected to be about 6.5 per cent in contrast to a decline of 4.5 per cent during 1979-80. This is mainly because of the good agricultural output of both foodgrains as well as commercial crops. Available data indicate that the rate of investment continues to be sluggish as a proportion of the gross domestic product. It had already fallen to 21.8 per cent in 1979-80 from 23.7 per cent in the previous year.

Agriculture: With the south-west monsoon fairly widespread and the winter rains quite satisfactory the agricultural production is likely to be higher by about 19 per cent in 1980-81 over the depressed level of 1979-80. Production of foodgrains is estimated to touch the record of about 132 million tonnes, i.e. about 23 million tonnes higher than the output of 109 million tonnes during 1979-80. The recovery has been substantially in rice production which has expected to reach a level of 56 million tonnes thus exceeding the peak level of 53.6 million tonnes in 1978-79. The production of current kharif cereals is estimated at 23.2 million tonnes while kharif pulses are estimated at 4.1 million tonnes.

As regards commercial crops production, sugarcane is estimated to be 152 million tonnes in 1980-81 which will be 18.8 per cent higher than 128 million tonnes in 1979-80. Production of cotton is expected to increase to about 8 million bales, jute and mesta may touch the record level of 8.1 million bales. Groundnut production has been affected by inadequate rains during September-October 1980 in several parts of Gujarat, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh. The prospects of other oilseeds is somewhat encouraging.

Industry and Infrastructure: Industrial output which showed a decline by 1.4 per cent in 1979-80 is estimated to rise by about 4 per cent in 1980-81. Data available for April-December show some increases in production of steel, cement, aluminium, lead, newsprint, tractors, diesel engines, transport equipments, sugar and vanaspati. However, infrastructure constraints continued to affect the overall industrial output in the current year.

The generation of electricity has been improved in the recent months and also output of coal and lignite has improved.

Price Trends: By far the most disquieting development in the economy has been the relentless upward spiral in prices. The upsurge in prices which began in early 1979 continued. The annual average increase during April-December 1980 showed an increase of 18.9 per cent as compared with 15.4 per cent during the corresponding period of 1979. Even taking the average in the calendar year of 1980 the increase in wholesale prices was 19.2 per cent during 1980 as compared with 11.5 per cent in 1979.

Cost push and international factors were mainly responsible in pushing up prices of food and non-food items. The increase was particularly marked in the case of pulses, oilseeds, petroleum crude, fuel, power, light and lubricants, mineral oils, sugar, khandsari, gur, edible oil and fertilisers.

Monetary Situation: In view of the inflationary pressures in the economy, expansion of monetary reserves and bank credit were controlled during 1980-81. The expansion of monetary reserves (M3), was lower at 12.6 per cent during the current year up to January 19, 1981 as against 13.4 per cent in the same period last year. However, both food and non-food credit had risen faster to meet busy season demand as well as higher cost procurement during the ramaining months of 1980-81.

Even bank credit of government increased by 21.4 per cent during March 31, 1980 to January 9, 1981 as against an increase of 17 per cent last year. This reflects the continued increase in government's budgetary deficit.

Balance of Payments: The sharp increase in oil prices since 1979 has substantially added to the total import bill which is likely to increase to Rs. 113,000 million during 1980-81. The full impact of rise in oil price has been felt during the current year when the total import bill of crude oil and petroleum products is likely to be about Rs. 56,000 million.

In contrast, exports have remained sluggish both due to infrastructural constraints and unfavourable international environment. During the year as a whole, the growth in the value of exports is likely to be about 10 per cent while the increase in volume of exports will be very insignificant. As a result the trade deficit during 1980-81 is likely to exceed Rs. 40,000 million as against Rs. 23,680 million in 1979-80 and the much lower figure of Rs. 10,880 million during 1978-79. Invisible receipts on account of tourism, transport, investment income and remittances from abroad have stagnated. The growth of remittances from abroad has decelerated and there are limits to the growth in income from transport and tourism. In view of these factors the current deficit may go up to Rs. 20.000 million.

The deterioration in country's balance of payment is reflected in draw down of the foreign exchange reserves which amounted to Rs. 3.130 million at the end of January, 1981. The draw down would have been more substantial if it was cushioned by the borrowings of Rs. 8.150 million from the IMF. On this basis the total withdrawal of foreign exchange reserves by the end of 1980-81 may be about Rs. 6,000 million. At the end of January, 1981, the foreign exchange reserves stood at only Rs. 48,510 million as against Rs. 51,640 million at the end of 1979-80.

The balance of payments situation facing the country according to the economic survey for 1980-81 will remain under pressure in the coming years. The deterioration in the trade balance poses severe problems over the medium term. Imports are heavily dominated by crude oil, petroleum products and fertilisers and prices of these items are likely to rise more rapidly than international prices. On the other hand, export prices at best will rise at the same rate as the international prices. The resulting deterioration in the terms of trade would mean a larger trade deficit at the current prices. All these factors point to continued difficulties on the external payment front for some years to come.

Outlook for 1981-82: The economic survey estimates a modest increase in agricultural output in the coming years. This is so because the increase will be from a high base in 1980-81. However, the lagged effect of good agricultural production during 1980-81 will spill over into the next year and together with the improved performance of the infrastructure, the rate of growth of industrial production is estimated to be significantly higher than that of 1980-81. According to the survey, if the Sixth Plan target of 5.2 per cent growth in GDP is to be fulfilled, it would require the harnessing of available unutilised capacity and the continued improvement in the performance of the infrastructure. This should be possible in view of the considerable under-utilisation of capacity in many key sectors of the economy at present and the likely improvement in the performance of the infrastructure. The survey also predicts that price pressures (specially on account of international factors) are likely to continue in the coming year.

CENTRAL BUDGET (1981-82)

FISCAL policy for 1981-82 has been formulated in an economic situation which continues to be difficult but shows some improvement as compared with 1980-81. (The details of the economic situation in 1980-81 and the outlook for 1981-82 are given in the chapter Economic Situation).

1980-81 Revised

According to the revised estimates for 1980-81 budgetary deficit of the Central Government increased sharply to Rs. 19,750 million as against the budgeted estimate of Rs. 14.450 million. The total expenditure of the Central Government is now (revised) placed at Rs. 228.080 million compared to Rs. 214.670 million in the budget (vide table B). Expenditure on revenue account showed an increase of Rs. 3.720 million while that on capital account increased by Rs. 9.690 million.

The increase in expenditure of the Central Government in 1980-81 as compared with the budgeted estimates is attributed to (i) Rs. 2.280 million for defence; (ii) Rs. 1,040 million non-plan assistance to Central Public Undertakings; (iii) Rs. 1.260 million to Agricultural Refinance Development Corporation and another Rs. 500 million to Industrial Development Bank of India; and (iv) Rs. 2.960 million under economic services and Rs. 7.290 million under loans and advances.

Aggregate receipts of the Centre at Rs. 208,330 million were Rs. 8,110 million higher than the budget estimates of Rs. 200,220 million. The increase under this head were mainly because of (a) higher receipts from corporation tax by Rs. 350 million as compared with the budget estimates; (b) receipts from Union excise were higher by nearly Rs. 1,000 million compared with budget estimates while that from customs exceeded the budget estimates by Rs. 3,610 million. Market borrowings also were higher by Rs. 1,040 million and an account of Rs. 2,000 million was taken from the sale of their advance in 1980-81.

1981-82 BUDGET

The Central Budget of 1981-82 provides for an overall deficit of the order of Rs. 18,100 million which after taking into account additional tax measures to the tune of Rs. 2,710 million is likely to be reduced to Rs. 15,390 million.

Gross tax revenue at the existing rates of taxation are estimated at Rs. 144.720 million compared with Rs. 131.330 million in the current year showing an increase of Rs. 13.390 million over the revised estimates. The States' share of taxes in 1981-82 is estimated at Rs. 42,060 million compared with Rs. 37,920 million in current year. Consequently, Centre's net tax revenue will be Rs. 102,660 million as against Rs. 93,410 million in 1980-81.

The receipts from market borrowings (net) are estimated at Rs 28.000 million compared with Rs. 26.040 million in the current year. Small savings are estimated to yield Rs. 12,500 million next year compared with Rs. 11.000 million in 1980-81. External assistance (net and loan payments) is estimated at Rs. 13.790 million compared with Rs. 12.580 million in the current year. Credit has also been taken of Rs. 8.000 million for receipt from sale of Special Bearer Bonds in 1981-82.

PLAN OUTLAY

The Plan Outlays for the Centre, States and Union territories in 1981-82 are estimated at Rs. 174,790 million compared with Rs. 145,930 million in budget estimates for 1980-81. This represents an increase of nearly 20 per cent over the 1980-81 level. The Plan Outlay of the Centre for 1981-82 is being stepped up to Rs. 86,190 million from Rs. 73.400 million in budget estimates for 1980-81 showing an increase of 17.4 per cent. The Plan Outlay is estimated to be financed by budgetary support of Rs. 63.090 million and internal-external budgetary resources of public sector undertakings of Rs. 23,100 million. The total of the approved plan outlays of States and Union Territories will be Rs. 88,600 million as against Rs. 72,530 million in budget estimates of 1980-81 showing an increase of 22 per cent. A provision of Rs. 34,620 million has also been made for Central assistance, for the State Plans as well as Union Territories.

The aggregate expenditure of the Central Government is estimated at Rs. 248,710 million. The increase of Rs. 20,630 million in the coming year is likely to be on account of (i) Rs. 7,130 million under general services; (ii) Rs. 2,930 million for defence; (iii) an increase of Rs. 1,710 million under services—social and community services and Rs. 5,650 million under economic services. In the capital account, the outlay on various developmental heads will increase by Rs. 6.410 million.

The budget leaves an overall deficit of Rs. 18,100 million which after taking into account the additional tax measures (of Rs. 2,710 million) is likely to amount to Rs. 15.390 million.

SIXTH FIVE-YEAR PLAN (1980-85)

THE Sixth Five-Year Plan has been formulated taking into account the achievements and shortcomings of the past three decades of planning, recent economic developments which have a bearing on the growth prospects of the economy in the medium term as well as the vision of the future as reflected in the long term perspective. The removal of poverty is the foremost objective of the Sixth Plan even though it is recognised that, given the magnitude of the task, it cannot be accomplished in a short period of five years. Inevitably, the pace of movement towards the long-term objectives of removal of poverty and the achievement of self-reliance and the nature of priorities in the immediate period ahead, are influenced by the current economic situation and the constraints operating in the economic system. It should be recognised that the Sixth Plan is being launched under difficult conditions. These include the acute inflationary pressures which have prevailed since March, 1979, a set-back in the functioning of such critical sectors as power, coal, railways and steel in the years immediately preceding the launching of the Sixth Plan and the steep rise in the price of petroleum products resulting in an increasing deterioration in the nation's terms of trade and the balance of payments. Effective solution for the existing difficulties are a pre-condition of successful implementation of the Sixth Plan. Any effective solution for these problems must be consistent with long term social and economic objectives so that the economy emerges out of these difficulties with improved growth prospects Thus the economy is faced with many challenges.

Growth prospects of the economy have been adversely affected by all these three factors: inflationary situation, constraints imposed by a poor performance in the basic infrastructure and the deteriorating balance of payments position. Since, however, the long-term prospects of the economy depend significantly on the development of domestic resources of oil, coal, power, and renewable source of energy, on the investment, in the modernisation and expansion of transport and on a rapid growth in agriculture and rural development, it will be necessary to make the requisite effort to mobilise resources in the face of all these difficulties so as to put the economy back on the path of sustained and self-generating growth.

The objectives of the Sixth Plan are given below. Along with the objectives are also listed major areas of effort which will be required to fulfil these objectives:

(i) a significant step up in the rate of growth of the economy, the promotion of efficiency in the use of resources and improved productivity;

(ii) strengthening the impulses of modernisation for the achievement of economic and technological self-reliance;

(iii) a progressive reduction in the incidence of poverty and unemployment;

(iv) a speedy development of indigenous sources of energy, with proper emphasis on conservation and efficiency in energy use;

(v) improving the quality of life of the people in general with special reference to the economically and socially handicapped population, through a minimum needs programme whose coverage is so designed as to ensure that all parts of the country attain within a prescribed period nationally accepted standards;

(vi) strengthening the redistributive bias of public policies and services in favour of the poor contributing to a reduction in inequalities of income and wealth;

(vii) a progressive reduction in regional inequalities in the pace of development and in the diffusion of technological benefits;

(viii) promoting policies for controlling the growth of population through voluntary acceptance of the small family norm;

(ix) bringing about harmony between the short and the long term goals of development by promoting the protection and improvement of ecological and environmental assets; and

(x) promoting the active involvement of all sections of the people in the process of development through appropriate education, communication and institutional strategies.

The strategy adopted for the Sixth Plan consists essentially in moving simultaneously to strengthen the infrastructure for both agriculture and industry for an accelerated growth in investments, output and exports, and to provide increased opportunities for employment especially in the rural areas and the unorganised sector and meet the minimum basic needs of the people. Stress is laid on dealing with inter-related problems, through a systems approach rather than in separate compartments; on greater managerial efficiency and intensive monitoring in all sectors and active involvement of the people in formulating specific schemes of development at the local level and in securing their speedy and effective implementation. The attack on the problem of poverty is most effective only in the conditions of an expanding economy. Since growth by itself may now, however, suffice, other programmes and policies will need to be adopted with the specific aim of improving the living conditions of the masses and to bring about a reduction in inequalities of income and wealth. The scheme of the Sixth Plan outlays thus provides for specific allocations for such programmes.

The Sixth Plan envisages a total investment (gross capital formation) of Rs. 1,587,100 million over the plan period 1980-85 at 1979-80 prices. This is to be financed by domestic saving of Rs. 1,496,470 million estimated at 1979-80 prices during the Sixth Plan and the net inflow of funds from abroad to the extent of Rs. 90,630 million. Thus, nearly 94.3 per cent of the total investment is to be financed from domestic resources.

The total investment has been projected to grow from Rs. 236,180 million in 1970-80 to Rs. 367,970 million in 1984-85. At the same time the GDP at market prices has been projected to increase from Rs. 1,085,460 million to Rs. 1,465,400 million during the same period. Thus, the investment (as per cent of GDP at market prices) is expected to rise from 21.8 per cent in 1979-80 to 24.5 per cent in 1984-85, implying a marginal rate of saving of the order of 33.7 per cent over the plan period 1980-85.

The total plan investment for the period 1980-85 is estimated at Rs. 1,587,100 million. Of this, Rs. 840,000 million (53 per cent) is estimated to be in the public sector and the balance of Rs. 747,100 million (47 per cent) in the private sector.

The Sixth Plan has been formulated against the background of a perspective covering a period of 15 years from 1980-81 to 1994-95. This development perspective visualises accelerated progress towards the removal of poverty, generation of gainful employment and technological and economic self-reliance. The strategy to attain these goals has been chosen after considering a variety of feasible alternative development profiles with their attendant costs and benefits. Consistent with our overall social and economic objectives, public policies will have to acquire a sharper redistributior focus in raising the share of the poorer sections in national income. consumption and in the utilisation of public services. Specific action programmes like the national rural employment programme and other anti-poverty schemes meant for selected target groups of population are essential components of a strategy to assist in the removal of unemployment and poverty.

In selecting the growth path we have to consider the trade off between a faster growth in the medium term with the consequence that the growth might slow down later on and conversely, somewhat slower growth now, to permit faster growth later. Although at any given time, meaningful investment choices are limited by the fact ongoing projects absorb a substantial proportion of available investible funds, there is always some choice at the margin in the sense that the mix of new projects can be altered in favour of quick maturing and directly productive projects. However, in so far as such a choice leads to less investment in long gestation infrastructure projects, the long term growth rate may be adversely affected even though the short term prospect may improve.

A large number of social and economic indicators have been used in selecting the development strategy for the Sixth Plan and the decade thereafter. Some of these indicators belong to conventional national income aggregates like gross domestic products (GDP) consumption, saving and investment, employment, per capita income and consumption. Others fall in the category of specific social welfare indicators like the number of people below the poverty line, life expectancy etc. Effective implementation of the development strategy outlined in the perspective will make a material contribution to removal of poverty and achievement of full employment over a period of about fifteen years. The principal indicators for the preferred alternative are shown in Table 1.

The Sixth Plan aims at a growth in gross domestic product of 5.2 per cent a year and per capita income by 3.3 per cent per annum. Thus by 1984-85 per capita income is expected to reach Rs. 1,744 at 1979-80 prices as compared with Rs. 1,488 in the base year.

Pensions and retirement benefits will account for Rs. 2,280 million.

According to Military Balance, 1980–81, per capita expenditure on defence in U.S. dollars in 1979 was 6 in India, 13 in Pakistan, 520 in U.S.A., 314 in U.K., 10 in Indonesia, 54 in Egypt, 101 in Iran, and 1,291 in Israel. India spent 3·9 per cent of its G.N.P. on defence in 1979, according to the Military Balance.

RECRUITMENT AND TRAINING

Recruitment of Ranks : In peace time, the demands are related to normal wastage. Considering the limited number required and the large number of candidates offering themselves for enrolment the screening procedure has been streamlined and made more effective to ensure that only the best candidates from the available material are inducted into the Services.

Physical Standards : Physical standards prescribed for recruitment of ranks in the Army have been revised upwards. Generally the increase in the physical standards ranges between 1 to 2 cms. in the height and 2 to 3 kgs. in weight. This marginal upward revision of the physical standards has not affected recruitment in the Army. On the contrary, it has improved physical standards. Discretionary powers exercised at various levels to condone shortfalls to a limited extent have been withdrawn. Minimum standards prescribed for general population are :

(a)	Height	164 cms.
(b)	Chest	78 cms.
(c)	Weight	51 kgs.

Corresponding physical standards are higher in respect of specified racio-ethnic groups whose inherent anthropometric characteristics are better, and lower for some other classes, predominantly residing in the hill districts and backward tribal regions. The physical standards for Sailors and Airmen are different.

Instructions have been issued to recruiting officers to enrol one son of a serving soldier/ex-servicemen on a relaxed standard, such relaxations extending to 2 cms. in height, 1 cm. in chest expansion and 2 kgs. in weight. This step has been taken as a measure of welfare and also to ensure that the tradition of service in the Army to those already serving or who have retired is maintained. The new instructions have come into force with effect from February 1977.

Educational Standards : The educational standards vary from trade to trade. In the case of the Army, variations range from literate to Higher Secondary as opposed to Higher Secondary/Pre-University in the Air Force and Matriculation for all categories except cooks/stewards in the Navy.

Selection Procedure : All prospective recruits for enrolment are screened by the enrolling officers at a suitable place. The best candidates among those who fulfil the prescribed standards are selected. The practice of putting the candidates through an aptitude test at the pre-enrolment stage was discontinued with effect from 15th November 1977. These aptitude tests would now be administered at the training centres after ten weeks of training and trades would be allotted on the basis of these tests. This has been introduced with a view to eliminating a source of malpractice at the recruitment stage where the JCO Tester had the last say in the matter of recruitment of an individual who was otherwise found physically and medically fit.

Recruiting Organisation : There is a combined recruiting organisation for the Army and the Navy. There are 60 recruiting offices located in important towns, each one of which covers several districts for recruitment to the Navy as well as the Army. There is a separate recruiting organisation for the Air Force which has 13 recruiting offices. Recruiting Officers carry out recruitment at their own stations or while on tour in the interior areas in their territorial jurisdiction. Each Recruiting Officer is expected to hold one recruiting mela in a month and make open recruitment at these melas.

Recruitment of Officers : Recruitment to the officers cadres in the three Services is made on the basis of a competitive examination through the U.P.S.C. as also by the Services Selection Boards. Candidates in the age group of 16–18½ years and possessing Higher Secondary and equivalent qualifications are eligible for competing in the examination. It is worth noting in this context that although it is not obligatory for the students of the Military Schools located at Chail, Ajmer, Dholpur, Belgaum and Bangalore to sit for the U.P.S.C. examination, special care is taken to see that they develop an interest in a military career. Accordingly coaching is arranged for those students who are desirous of appearing in the U.P.S.C. examination.

The candidates selected are imparted training at the National Defence Academy, Khadakvasla on an Inter-service basis for a period of three years. On completion of the training at N.D.A., Army Cadets go to the Indian Military Academy, Dehra Dun for further training for one year before they are commissioned. The Naval Cadets, after passing from the N.D.A. undergo afloat training for 6 months in the training squadron followed by another 6 months as midshipmen before they are commissioned. The Air Cadets undergo further training for 18 months at the Elementary Flying School, Bidar and Air Force Academy, Hyderabad, before they are commissioned.

Apart from the entry through N.D.A., there is a scheme of direct entry for candidates with graduate/post graduate qualification for the three services for various general/technical branches like, E.M.E., Engineers, Signals, Army Medical Corps, Army Service Corps, Army Education Corps etc. in the Army; Logistics, Aeronautical Engineering, Education and Meteorological Branches of the Air Force; and Engineering and Education Branches in the Navy. The age prescribed to these branches varies from 20 to 27 years. The selection is made through U.P.S.C. as well as directly by the Services Selection Boards. There is also a scheme for entry through N.C.C. and through promotion from the ranks.

After commissioning the Army Officers are appointed as 2nd Lieutenant and Naval and Air Force Officers as Ag. Sub Lieutenant and Pilot Officers respectively. Ante date commission is given to qualified graduates in Engineering, M.B.B.S. etc.

Training : Training in the Services has been planned so as to keep the units and formations in a state of readiness so that they can take the field at short notice. Special emphasis has been laid on endurance, fortitude and mental robustness of all ranks so that they are conditioned to withstand the pressure and the intensity of fire of modern weaponry.

Intensive pre-commission training is provided to the officers in National Defence Academy, Indian Military Academy, Naval and Air Force Academies, before the officers are commissioned. After an officer has been commissioned in the Service, he undergoes a number of courses designed to fit him in his particular branch of service. In the case of Army, post-commission training in specialised branches is imparted at Infantry School, Armoured Corps and Artillery Schools, College of Military Engineering, College of Combat and High Altitude Warfare School etc. Training in Navy is provided in the training schools of various branches, e.g. INS "SHIVAJI" for the Engineering Branch, INS "VALSURA" for the Electrical Branch, INS "HAMLA" for the Supply Branch and INS "VENDURUTHY" for the Executive Branch. Air Force Officers undergo advanced training in the Air Force Academy, Air Force Technical College and Air Force Administrative College, etc. The Officers of the three Services are also deputed for training in the Defence Services Staff College, Institute of Defence Management and National Defence College.

Individual and collective training exercises are held periodically by the three Services so as to keep the units and formations in a state of operational readiness. The training imparted develops inter-arms and inter-service co-operation and inculcates initiative at all levels of command.

In order to keep the Armed Forces abreast of modern tactical concepts and technological advancements in foreign countries, officers are deputed to foreign countries for specialised training. Services of such officers are utilised for imparting training to other officers in respective fields.

LABOUR

WORKING POPULATION: The total working population was 139·5 million in 1951; 188·4 million in 1961; 212 million in 1971; and is expected to reach 280 million in 1980.

The working population formed 32·92 per cent of total population according to 1971 census.

Employment: According to the 1971 census 72 per cent of the working population was engaged in the primary sector, 11·1 per cent in the secondary sector and 16·7 per cent in the tertiary sector.

The occupational structure of the rural working population also revealed that 84·8 per cent were dependent on agriculture and allied activities, 6·6 per cent on mining, manufacturing and household industry and only 8·5 per cent in trade, commerce and other services.

In the urban sector 54·9 per cent were engaged in the tertiary sector and only 32·3 per cent found employment in the secondary sector.

Rural Workers: Nearly 80 per cent of the population of India and 83 per cent of the workforce live in the rural areas. The estimated workforce in the rural areas in 1978 was 216·16 million as against urban workforce of 44·76 million. Workforce in agriculture was 192·43 million. The remaining 23·73 million of the rural workforce was engaged in non-agricultural occupations.

Sex Break-up: The sex-wise break-up of the working population showed that 82·6 per cent of the total workers were male and 17·4 per cent female.

Age Break-up: 5·9 per cent of the total workers were children in the age group 0 to 14 whilst 7·8 per cent were over the age of 60. The social reality is that nearly 10·8 million children are labourers despite the law against child labour, whilst lack of old age security compels people to work beyond the retirement age.

Employment Exchanges: The number of employment exchanges at the end of March, 1980, was 627 which included 15 professional and executive employment offices and 69 University Employment Information and Guidance Bureau.

The number of vacancies notified by employers was 878·7 thousand during 1979 against 830·7 thousand in the previous year.

Employees' Provident Funds & Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952.

Under this Act three Schemes have been framed:

(i) The Employees' Provident Funds Scheme, 1952 ;
(ii) The Employees' Family Pension Scheme, 1971 and (iii) The Employees' Deposit-linked Insurance Scheme, 1976.

The salient features, in brief of these three schemes are as follows :—

(1) The Employees' Provident Funds Scheme, 1952 : The Act and the Scheme have been made applicable to 157 specified industries/classes of establishments upto 31-3-1980. All factories/establishments engaged in one or more of these industries/classes of establishments and employing 20 or more persons and having completed the infancy period (viz., 3 years for establishments employing 50 or more persons and 5 years for those employing more than 20 but less than 50 persons) are covered under the Scheme. The statutory rate of Provident Fund Contribution—employer's and employees' share each is 8 per cent of pay (i.e. basic wages, dearness allowance including cash value of food concession, if any, and retaining allowance, if any) in respect of factories/establishments engaged in 89 specified industries/classes of establishments and employing 50 or more persons and 6·25 per cent in respect of the other factories/establishments.

The qualifying period of service for membership of the Provident Fund is six months' continuous service or 120 days of actual work during a period of six months or less or on becoming permanent, whichever is earliest.

Membership : At the end of March, 1980 the number of subscribers was 10·46 million in respect of 93,094 covered establishments (both exempted and unexempted) and the total Provident Fund contributions collected was Rs. 64,337·2 million.

(2) The Employees' Family Pension Scheme, 1971 : The Scheme came into force w.e.f. 1st March, 1971 and covers the employees enrolled as members of the Employees' Provident Funds Scheme, 1952, thereafter, the existing subscribers of the E.P.F. Scheme, 1952 as on 28-2-1971, were given the option to join this Scheme. As on 31-3-1980, there were 5·44 million members of the Family Pension Scheme. The rate of contribution is 1·6 per cent of the pay of the employees, diverted out of both employer's and employees' shares of contributions to the Provident Fund with an equal share contributed by the Central Govt. who also bears the total administrative expenses of this Scheme. As on 31-3-1980 a total amount of Rs. 2,812·8 million was received as contributions (including Central Govt.'s share) in respect of this Scheme.

(3) The Employees' Deposit-linked Insurance Scheme, 1976 : This Scheme, which came into force w.e.f. 1-8-1976, is applicable to all employees who are members of the Provident Fund, both in exempted or unexempted establishments. The Scheme provides for the payment to the nominees/heirs of a member in the event of his death, of an additional amount equal to the average balance in the Provident Fund account of the deceased member during the preceding three years, but not exceeding Rs. 10,000, provided that the average balance (after 1-8-1979) in the account of the deceased member is not less than Rs. 1,000 during the preceding three years or during the period of his membership, whichever is less. Employees covered under this Scheme are not required to make any contribution to get the benefit under this Scheme. The Scheme is financed by the employees of the covered establishments @ 0·5 per cent of the pay of the employees, who are members of the Provident Fund and the Central Govt. also contributes an amount representing one half of the employer's contribution. The cost of administration of this Scheme is borne both by the employers and the Central Govt. @ 0·1 per cent and 0·05 per cent (respectively) of the pay of the employees. The employers of the exempted establishments however pay inspection charges @ 0·02 per cent of the pay of the employees. As on 31-3-1980, a total amount of Rs. 821·8 million and Rs. 176·6 million was received as contributions and Administration Charges respectively in respect of this Scheme, which includes Central Govt.'s share also.

Bonded Labour : The powers for enforcement of the Bonded Labour System (Abolition) Act, 1976 rest with the State Governments. According to reports from State Governments the number of bonded labourers so far identified and released is more than 120,000. The 32nd round of the National Sample Survey (April, 1979) indicated the number around 340,000. According to the preliminary findings of a joint survey conducted by the National Labour Institute and Gandhi Peace Foundation (1978) the incidence of bonded labour is about 3 million.

Employment Publications: The Directorate of Advertising and Visual Publicity of the Government of India began in April, 1976, to bring out "Employment News" in English and "Rozgar Samachar" in Hindi every week.

SPORTS

THE history of the OLYMPIC GAMES is rich with famous names. Every four years, in some major city of the world, thousands of Olympians gather for athletic competition. In 1896 Baron Pierre de Coubertin fathered the modern Olympic Games. "The important thing" he said, "in the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part. The essential thing in life is not conquering but fighting well." The first recorded Olympic event took place in 776 B.C.

The U.S.A. boycotted 1980 Moscow Olympics because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

The other major powers who stayed away from joining the Olympics were China, Japan, West Germany and Canada. Only 81 nations took part in Olympic games in 1980.

PUBLIC SECTOR

PUBLIC Sector plays a vital role in India's mixed economy. It activates the whole economy by promoting crucials and key sector which, due to heavy investment and low returns does not provide enough incentive to the private sector.

The growth of public sector has been impressive and now it covers 176 public enterprises with a total investment of Rs. 156,020 million as at end of March, 1979 against 83 enterprises with an aggregate investment of Rs. 33,330 million as at the end of March, 1968. The compound growth rate works out to be 10·3 per cent. Both the equity holding and long term loans take equal share of 50 per cent each. The turnover of the public sector undertakings was Rs. 189,360 million in 1978-79 against Rs. 23,930 million in 1968–69. The compound growth rate was 23 per cent. The gross profit of operational enterprises i.e. those excluding insurance companies rose from Rs. 850 million in 1968–69 to Rs. 10,760 million in 1978–79. The account of profit making and loss making enterprises is given in table 1 and table 2.

The public sector performed rather badly during 1979–80 due to the shortage of power, steel, difficult transport and post situation and labour trouble. However, it is reported to be doing better during the first months of 1980–81 in the field of minerals and metals, coal, medium and light engineering, transport equipment and consumer goods but petroleum, chemicals, and pharmaceuticals and heavy engineering were not equally active.

The sixth plan estimates public sector plan outlay at Rs. 693,800 million and the proposed financing is as stated in table 3.

The outlook for the coming decade for public sector is quite bright in the sense that the growth in industrial field will be accelerated due to new and effective allocation of resources e.g. in the field of power generation and distribution, the National Thermal Power Corporation and the National Hydro Electric Power Corporation may add substantially to the power generation capacity. As a result of planned investment of Rs. 8,000 million or more the production of coal is expected to look up.

Public Sector occupies predominant position in the country and not only will it be the producer of important and strategic goods of basic nature but will also help stabilise the supplies and prices of essential commodities to the consumers.

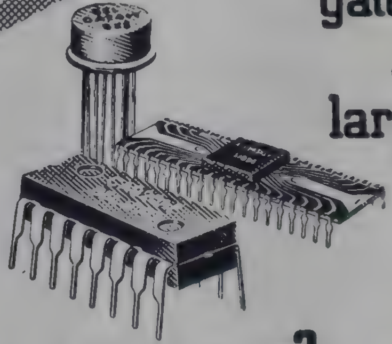
BEL ENTERS LSI ERA IN ICs

Computer-aided design, microlithography, and Ion Implantation, Metal and Silicon gate technology

-leading to large scale integration.



Soon, BEL will bring you LOVAG, C^{2}L, and SOS ICs.

Since BEL pioneered commercial production of ICs in this country, the technology has become more advanced. ICs have now become more complex and much smaller in size. Thanks to the computer-aided design and other modern facilities, BEL could easily transcend to the new innovations in IC technology.

The new generation of IC technology calls for more sophisticated techniques and testing parameters BEL has now equipped itself with sophisticated facilities such as microlithography and Ion Implantation — which will enable BEL to produce microprocessors and other large scale ICs. And BEL has the capability to provide the most critical component for digital watches, the LSIs.

With these latest additions to bipolar and CMOS ICs, BEL is in the process of enlarging its current product range in ICs. At several stages of development are: BEL 7000 AM/FM radio IC, designed to give 1 watt power at 6V; type BEL 7001 for tape recorder applications, telephone dialler IC and PCM CODEC ICs and a number of new generation ICs.

The driving force behind BEL's leadership thrust has been its components capability. BEL's unique in-depth expertise in IC technology is only too well matched by its achievements in other component areas: receiving valves, transmitting tubes, X-ray tubes, cathode ray tubes, TV picture tubes, microwave tubes, passive vacuum devices, display devices, hybrid microcircuits, printed circuit boards, precision crystal filters and ceramic capacitors.

These technological triumphs notwithstanding, it is BEL's state-of-the-art systems capability, as evidenced by its sophisticated systems and equipment that keeps India on the electronics map of the world.

MPM is committed to paper. And meets the challenge.

MPM's Rs. 140 crore expansion now forging into reality

MPM, one of the oldest paper mills is fast becoming the largest—in one location, in the country. Nearing completion is its ambitious venture on paper, the Rs. 140 crore expansion programme.

Bhadravati has just now witnessed the high pitch activity of the erection and installation of the newsprint machinery. Best of brains from India and abroad are at work here, with technology from Finland and equipment from world leaders.

Right now hundreds of MPM men are at work to complete the most modern Chipper House, Pulp Mill, Coal Handling system, Electrical Distribution system and a variety of intricate and sophisticated networks. Forestry development in 75,000 acres in a phased plan is another challenge at hand.

All to ensure that MPM will soon reel out the story of newsprint, writing, printing and packing paper. Adding, annually, to the national resources 75,000 tonnes of newsprint and 37,000 tonnes of other varieties. Helping to narrow the supply-demand gap.

Progress-the medium is paper

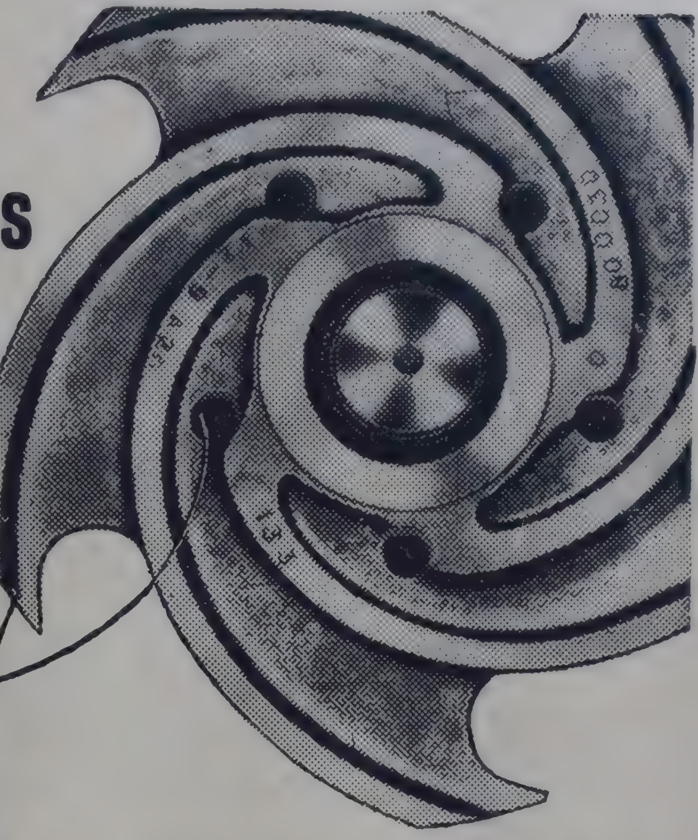
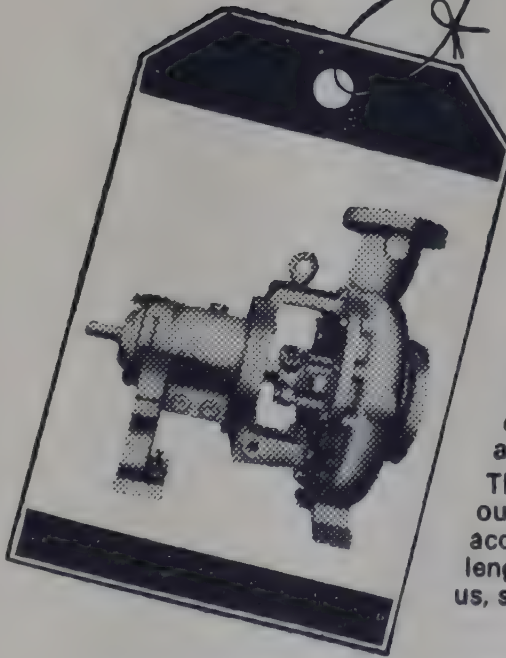
The impelling reasons behind nation-wide acceptance of chemflo® pumps





-by process industries

The Impeller is just one of the highlights of the outstanding features of Chemflo Pumps. Its unique design of smoothly contoured inlet passages reduces turbulence and provides exceptionally high efficiency. Statically and dynamically balanced, it allows operation over a wide range of suction pressures.

There are, of course, other features too, equally outstanding, which impel the widespread acceptance of Chemflo Pumps—throughout the length and breadth of India. Why not write to us, so that we may tell you all about them?
